

MURDER TRIAL IS UNDERWAY TODAY

SEVEN JURORS ARE ACCEPTED TEMPORARILY

Horace Van Horn Faces First Degree Murder Charge in Court Here

FOUR ARE DISMISSED

May Complete Jury Early Tuesday; Witnesses Next

The trial of Horace Van Horn, Darby-twp trustee, charged with the first degree murder of William Lewis, also of Darby-twp, got underway in common pleas court here Monday at shortly after 9 a. m. with Judge Frank M. Cleveland of Wilmington, Clinton-co, on the bench.

Van Horn is charged with running his automobile over the prostrate body of Lewis lying in the road near the Lewis home after an alleged altercation in which the deceased man's son, Walter, had a part. The younger Lewis is the prosecuting witness.

SEVEN SEATED
At the noon recess which began at 12 o'clock and continued to 1:30 p. m. seven jurors had been tentatively selected and four dismissed. Those seated in the jury box before the afternoon session began were:

Mrs. Cora Riegel, housewife, of Scioto-twp;

Joseph Porter, farmer of Salt-creek-twp;

Frank Shell, farmer of Monroe-twp;

Fred Michaels, farmer of Darby-twp;

Mrs. Sylvia Reed, housewife, third ward, Circleville;

Mrs. Ruth Liston, housewife, of Scioto-twp;

Mark Price, farmer of Salt-creek-twp.

Each of these jurors was seated after answering many questions concerning relationship to the defendant, to the prosecuting witness, to either attorneys, I. F. Snyder and C. A. Leist for the defendant, and E. L. Crist and Tom A. Renick for the state, whether they were opposed to capital punishment, whether they had formed an opinion of the case and a number of other questions which might influence their decision one way or another.

Four persons were excused as jurors. They were W. J. Ryan, S. Court-st, this city, who was excused because of ill-health and hard-hearing; J. A. McLaughlin, this city, because of hard-hearing; Mrs. Hannah Schein, Monroe-twp, because she is opposed to capital punishment; Ross Ucker, Walnut-twp, because he had formed an opinion.

The questioning of prospective jurors was going along smoothly with the upper hall of the courthouse filled with the remainder of the 75 prospective jurors summoned to appear. At 9:15 a. m. Judge Cleveland summoned Clerk of Courts Ferd M. Pickens and the task of calling the jurors to ascertain their presence was started. After only a few names had been called Judge Cleveland became aware that the defendant, Mr. Van Horn had not yet been brought to the court-room.

He ordered him brought and the roll call began anew.

It was predicted that the jury would be completed early Tuesday with the actual trial getting underway early Wednesday.

SALT CREEK AND WALNUT WIN TOURNAMENTS

THIS COURTSHIP LASTS ONE HOUR

POMEROY, O., Mar. 2.—It just took John Farmer, 25, and Jessie Molden, 21, an hour to decide that "she was meant for him and he was meant for her," according to officers at the Meigs-co infirmary.

The couple married after an hour's courtship and today they were "honeymooning." Miss Molden was working at the infirmary when she met Farmer while he was visiting his parents at the home.

4 ARE HELD FOR THEFTS

Two Youths Caught Inside Filling Station; Other Admits Other Robberies

An attempted robbery of the Watts service station at the intersection of state routes 104 and 56, Darbyville and Jackson-pks. was frustrated by quick work on the part of the office of Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and hardly had the suspects been lodged in the county jail than written confessions were obtained from them.

The two arrested are William Gaines and Jesse Eby, both of Lovers Lane, this city.

The sheriff received the call and hurriedly went to the filling station where he found the pair inside.

Both leaped out a window and sped through a field. Several shots were fired in the direction of the fleeing pair and one of the boys was seen to fall. Fear that he was shot was held until the deputy sheriff caught his side then he was found lying so flat on the ground that he could hardly be seen. While Eby was caught Gaines continued to flee and was not apprehended until Sunday afternoon near the Goldfrederick farm in Saltcreek-twp.

After Gaines had been returned to the jail, both youths made confessions but blamed each other for breaking a window to gain entrance. In the confessions the fact that one of the pair broke a window and entered the station then handed out pumps in an effort to obtain gasoline was brought out.

All the members of the sheriff's office, Sheriff Radcliff and Deputies Custer, Armstrong and Fissell, took part in the arrests and obtaining the confessions.

OTHERS HELD
Two other local men are being held in the city bastille on charges of investigation, although a confession has been obtained by Officer McCrady from Ernest Dragoon that he with Irvin Trimmer have been entering the Helvetberg and Scharenberg station at Main- and Mingo-sts and taking gasoline and oil. The pair were lodged in the city bastille after an investigation of these thefts.

ASHVILLE LUMBER COMPANY ENTERED

The Hedges Lumber Co., of Ashville, was broken into over the past week-end, according to an announcement by Jose Hedges Monday. An effort was made to pry open the desk in the office and to open the safe both of which proved to be no avail.

SOLDIERS HURRY

BONUS REQUESTS

NEW YORK, March 2.—Police-men were called out today to keep order as long lines of men formed in front of the veterans' bureau seeking bonus certificates. Fifteen thousand checks were placed in mails today and the bureau was prepared to handle 2,000 applications hourly.

More than 10,000 applications were expected today.

FIJIS ARE AGAIN

DISASTER SCENE

LONDON, Mar. 2.—For the third time in 12 days, a hurricane swept the Fiji Islands today, inflicting a reported death toll of 100.

Central News dispatches and other messages received here from Suva stated that the latest storm devastated the northeast coast of the island of Viti Levu, one of the largest units in the Fiji group.

The previous two hurricanes, which raged for several days early last week, killed 250 islanders.

GRAIN CO. IS ROBBED

The office at the Pickaway Grain Co., 121 S. Western-ave, was entered by sneak-thieves between 12:30 and 12:45 p. m. Monday and $36 in bills and change was reported stolen from the cash drawer. There was no one in the main office at the time of the robbery, although John Baucher, an employee, was in the rear of the elevator.

The thief or thieves are thought to have entered by the front door and quietly taking the money made a getaway before Baucher could detect anyone in the office.

It was just last June that the grain elevator was entered and a sum of about the same amount reported gone.

S. BLOOMFIELD RESIDENT DIES

George H. Wilson, 49, Native of Scioto-Twp, Is Claimed Early Monday.

George Harmon Wilson, aged 49, a native of Scioto-twp, passed away at his home at South Bloomfield Sunday at 5 a. m. Complications caused his death.

He was born Jan. 23, 1882 in Scioto-twp, and was the son of William E. and Catherine Caldwell Wilson. He is survived by a sister, Miss Mary Wilson, and a brother, J. W. Wilson, both of whom he resided. He was never married.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the South Bloomfield M. E. church with Rev. William Alexander officiating. Burial will be in the Bloomfield cemetery by E. F. Schlegel of Ashville.

DAUGHERTY IS RECALLED

Former Banker to Tell Remainder of His Testimony; May Summon Ballard.

WASHINGTON, C. H., March 2.—Fayette-co courtroom today was to hear the remainder of Mal S. Daugherty's story accounting for failure of the Ohio State Bank of which he had been president.

Daugherty, accused of misapplication of funds entrusted to his bank, was under cross-examination of Special Prosecutor Louis J. Schneider when court was adjourned Saturday. He was testifying in his own defense.

Indications today were that C. P. Ballard, former cashier and first vice-president of the defunct institution may be called to support Daugherty's defense. Ballard has been living in Zanewsville since the bank was closed last May.

LEG FRACTURED

Eliza Paxton, 16, high school student, suffered a fractured leg while playing football at the Walnut-twp school Saturday afternoon.

The lad, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paxton, E. Ohio-st, was injured when "tackled" by a playmate. His injury was reduced by Dr. Lloyd Jones.

GIRLS INJURED

CAMBRIDGE, O., March 2.—Fourteen-year-old Ruth House, star of the Zanewsville high school basketball team, is in a critical condition at the Wells hospital today, suffering a broken back and torn ribs as a result of a tournament game at Caldwell Saturday night.

Miss House was participating with the Zanewsville team in a game against Belle Valley when she suffered a severe fall which caused her injuries.

Physicians fear she may not be able to recover. She is the daughter of Homer House of Zanewsville.

ZANESVILLE, O., March 2.—Burns which resulted when his clothing was ignited by an open fire at his home today caused the death of George Adams, 84-year-old resident of Dresden, at Bethesda hospital here.

FAILED TO STOP IS ORDERED HELD

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Charged with failing to stop his auto to permit a street car to discharge passengers, Harry Griffith, 22, of Richmond, in Union-co, was in the city jail here today awaiting a hearing as the result of an accident that yesterday cost a Columbus man a broken leg.

Although Griffith declared he thought the car was starting away when he approached in his machine, police indicated they will hold him until the regular traffic hearing Thursday unless bond is supplied.

STATE ROAD WORK BEGINS

Contracts For $260,000 Worth of Building Let By State Highway Director.

COLUMBUS, March 2.—Ohio's 1931 road program got underway here with a bang today when State Highway Director O. W. Merrill announced the award of contracts for highway work in twelve counties of the state.

The contract according to figures released by the highway director involve an expenditure of more than $260,000 for road work.

GRAVEL CO. EMPLOYS 50

Sturm-Dillard Begins Operations Monday After Layoff For Improvements.

The Sturm-Dillard gravel washing company began operations on Monday after being "down" for more than a month for repairs and more than 50 men were rehired by the company, according to an announcement by James H. Evans, general superintendent.

At the present no night shift is being used by the company but it will be added shortly. Much new equipment has been installed by the Sturm-Dillard Co.

"PEOPLE DEMAND REPEAL" REPORT

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—More than half of the people of the United States are ready to vote for repeal of the 18th Amendment as soon as Congress authorizes a referendum according to a report of the association against the prohibition amendment published today.

The report stated that more than a fourth of the total population has officially repudiated the 18th Amendment at the polls.

"At least a majority of the American people want prohibition ended. The question is will Congress permit them to give their verdict" the report asked.

BANK CLOSES

RISE SUN, O., Mar. 2.—Declaring they were unable to meet demands because of dwindling deposits, officials of the Sun Savings Bank here today voluntarily closed the institution's doors.

Directors of the bank took the action, they said, because they knew they would NOT be able to meet demands and they did not think it necessary to await state-banking department requests for them to cease.

R. H. Black of Bowling Green, member of the state bank liquidation department, was temporarily placed in charge of the bank by State superintendents of Banks Ira J. Fulton.

NEWMAN DENIES BANK ROBBERY

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Carried into court on a stretcher, James Newman, Columbus ex-convict, today pleaded not guilty to charges of robbing the bank of Westerville of $6,000 last December 12.

Newman suffering from bullet wounds received in a gun duel in Los Angeles where he was captured, requested that his trial be delayed until his wife could return to Columbus from Los Angeles with funds to provide for an attorney.

BOWMAN GANG WORK SEEN IN BOLD HOLDUP

Passengers of Blue and Gray Bus Passing Thru Here Robbed Sunday OBTAIN $578 IN LOOT

Robbery Reported to Police Here; 3 Men Work

PORTSMOUTH, O., Mar. 2.—With the theory that a notorious bandit gang may have returned to its terrorizing tactics after a lay-off of several weeks, police today combed southern Ohio and Kentucky for three men who yesterday modernized the stage-coach holdup and robbed 22 passengers on a Columbus-to-Charleston, W. Va., bus of $578 in cash and fled southward.

After their daring robbery at George Postoffice, seven miles north of Portsmouth, on the Scioto trail, two of the bandits who had been passengers on the bus joined the third who had overtaken the coach in his own car, and crossed the Ohio River bridge into Kentucky, it was reported.

MAY BE BOWMANS

Although police confessed they are without definite clues, they hinted today that the three men may be members of the notorious "Bowman gang" which terrorized southern Ohio several weeks ago, only to take a sudden and unexpected vacation.

Two of the bandits boarded the bus early Sunday morning, having bought tickets for Portsmouth.

The third, believed to have been following from Columbus, in a new car, was seen once when about 10 miles from the scene of the robbery, and when about three miles from the site of the holdup, is reported to have passed the bus.

After parking his car at George Postoffice, the man halted the bus by flagging the driver with a flashlight.

Although slackening the speed of his bus, C. E. Steel, Columbus, did not stop.

Leaping from their seats in the bus, two of the bandits, accomplices produced revolvers and forced the driver to bring the bus, one of the coaches on the Blue & Gray line, to a halt.

Mrs. Emerson T. Graham, Columbus, was the only woman passenger and the only passenger, it was believed, who outwitted the holdup men.

She held her diamond ring in her mouth and kept one foot over her purse, and saved both.

WORE NO MASKS

Edward Moore, second driver of the bus, was threatened with death when he turned his head toward the back of the coach in an attempt to get a look at the faces of the bandits. The men did not attempt to don masks or disguise themselves while conducting the holdup, passengers reported.

Portsmouth victims were fathers and electricians returning home from work in Scranton, Pa. The robbery was staged at about 3:45 a. m.

Steel, the driver of the bus, stopped here on his return trip and notified the local police station to be on the lookout for the trio whom he thought might have redoubled their tracks. No trace of the robbers was found in this county.

FEAR 15 LOST DURING STORM

LONDON, Mar. 2.—A death toll of fifteen was feared today in the wake of a week-end storm over the Irish sea.

A Dutch trawler was found floating bottom up off Robeheart, on the Scottish coast, an Aberdeenshire crew of twelve men was reported missing.

Three men fishing from a motorboat off the Northumberland coast drowned when their boat capsized during a blizzard.

TO BROADCAST

The high school orchestra under the direction of C. F. Zanglen will broadcast from 11 to 11:40 a. m. Sunday, March 8, over radio station W C A H, Columbus.

NEIGHBORHOOD FOUND STRICKEN

A neighborhood in Jackson-twp is certainly receiving its amount of tough luck as this story will prove.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Florence, aged 86 and 80 respectively, have pneumonia and influenza; Miss Sallie Williams, aged 89, is ill at her home, and Vernon Grant, aged 80, is suffering from bruises received when he was struck by a cow. All live in the same neighborhood in Jackson-twp.

4 ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED

No One Seriously Injured In Minor Crashes Near This City Over Week-end.

Several minor accidents, in which several persons were injured, none seriously, are reported in the vicinity of this city over the past week-end.

Melbourne Brown, 18, of Hallsville, is a patient in Berger hospital suffering from a minor scalp wound, a bruised shoulder and arm, after his automobile was struck near Thatcher Saturday night. Another youth riding with Brown was unharmed. Brown was treated by Dr. Courtwright and sent to the hospital. He was to be released Monday afternoon.

The name of the driver of the car which collided with Brown's is not known.

Ray Noonan, this city, escaped with bruises when his new Chrysler coupe, was struck by the Essex driven by Homer Starkey of Wellston, north of South Bloomfield Saturday evening. Starkey was lodged in the county jail by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and promised to pay the costs of repairs on the Noonan car, according to Radcliff.

The body and the fenders of the Noonan Chrysler were badly damaged.

A Graham-Paige, driven by a Miss Jones of Clarkburg and which carried three other women, was damaged considerably at Bell's Sliding at 8 p. m. Saturday when it and a Ford collided on the wet pavement. The Graham-Paige is said to have struck the rear end of the Ford, both traveling north. The Jones car then struck an abutment at the side of the road. Both cars were taken to the Circleville Motors garage.

Minor injuries were treated here by Dr. Courtwright.

A Willys-Knight, four-door coupe, was found in a field at the Liston farm at Stevenson's crossing Monday morning badly wrecked. None of its occupants could be found by Deputy Sheriff Bob Armstrong, who investigated and no report of the accident could be learned. The license plate number of the car was 454-197.

MISS COATES TO TALK HERE

Citizens Invited to Hear Address Before Benevolent Association Tuesday.

Miss Sarah Coates of Columbus will address the Circleville Benevolent Association at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Monday Club rooms in the Memorial Hall. Miss Coates is executive secretary of the Family Bureau in Columbus which is caring for 4,000 families.

Her experience will be valuable to officers, organizations and individuals who are interested in helping the unemployed and the unfortunate.

The committee on school lunches will also report. Mrs. R. O. Harrison, social worker will tell of her work in Circleville. Everyone is invited.

YOUTHS HELD

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Discovery of a "juvenile gang" of newsboys and grammar school pupils who stole valuable property and traded it for roller skates, toys and trinkets today had cleared up a wave of petty banditry in downtown Columbus, police said.

School Head Out

David G. Millard (above), principal of Rochester, N. Y. High School, ousted after a row with two students, Lyle Knapp and Stuart MacDonald. Three hundred pupils of the school, it is reported, threaten to strike unless Knapp is returned to the school roster.

OHIO HEALTH REPORT MADE

1930 Death Rate Lowest In State Since 1909, Dr. H. G. Southard Discloses.

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 2.—Dr. H. G. Southard today made a report that "a summary reflects generally healthful conditions and comparative freedom from communicable disease." Health Director H. G. Southard today made public statistics which show Ohio's death rate for 1930 to have been the lowest since the present registration system was established in 1900.

The 1930 death rate for the state as compiled by the division of vital statistics, was 11.1 per 1,000, and shows a decline of 5,225 deaths or a decrease of 14 deaths a day.

The principal decreases were in influenza and pneumonia, where the decline was 37 per cent.

Causes of death which indicated an increase for the year are accidental falls, conflagration, heart diseases, enteritis, cancer, automobile accidents, suicides, homicides, diabetes, typhoid fever, anterior poliomyelitis, scarlet fever and smallpox.

Decreases were reported in measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, tuberculosis, and several other diseases.

"There was no major epidemic that resulted in a notable increase in the number of deaths from disease during the year," the report stated.

The 1929 death rate was 12 per 1,000, according to Director Southard's report.

JUDGE ADKINS IS SENT TO LOGAN, O.

Judge Joseph W. Adkins will go to Logan Tuesday to hear testimony in a damage case in Hocking-co common pleas court in the matter of Mittle Ingmore against Homer G. Hanzel, O. L. Hutchinson and C. E. Slate. It is expected the trial will require three days.

J. W. Defenbaugh of Lancaster and Edwin D. Ricketts, of Logan, former congressman, are attorneys in the suit.

On Monday, March 9, Judge Adkins has been assigned to Ironton common pleas court in a damage suit growing out of an automobile accident.

The condition will exist only until I can find another man to take over the job," Sears said. The situation arose when Lloyd Wine, prohibition inspector of the 13th district was transferred to district 10 in northeastern Ohio.

TO NAME AGENT IN 13TH AREA

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—The situation in the 13th Ohio prohibition district, where only one dry agent, who is not fully commissioned, is operating, is "only temporary," State Prohibition Director Clarence Sears stated today.

"The condition will exist only until I can find another man to take over the job," Sears said. The situation arose when Lloyd Wine, prohibition inspector of the 13th district was transferred to district 10 in northeastern Ohio.

COUNTY TITLE TILTS DECIDED BY ONE POINT

Pickaway, Ashville Fall Before Winners after Great Contests

CROWD IS LARGE

Dark-horse Wins While Walnut Turns Tables

The annual Pickaway-co basketball tournament came to an end Saturday evening at C. A. C. gym when the Saltcreek-twp boys and the Walnut-twp girls announced county-wide honors by defeating Pickaway-twp and Ashville in the most thrilling contests of the tournament. Each game was decided by one point, the boys' contest ending 21-20 and the girls' 25-24.

In both games, however, the finish was directly opposite. Saltcreek overcame a 17-14 lead to come from behind to win the game while the Walnut girls heroically protected a five-point lead to carry off the honor of winning the title the last year. Pickaway-co girls are permitted to take part in a basketball tournament.

SENSATIONS MANY

Sensation after sensation found its way into the games with not a single second of either contest lacking in excitement. The 1,000 rabid fans who filled every seat and perch in the spacious gymnasium saw basketball as played in very few counties. The saw clean competition, excellent individual play, and good sportsmanship among fans. All the fans had the matter which team won and which lost the spirit which prevailed was the same. One of the finest examples of good fellowship was shown after the great Saltcreek-Pickaway game, when the Saltcreek stands gave a rousing cheer for the defeated Pickaway players and crowd.

STRATEGY WINS
It was strategy on the part of Coach Marvin Miller at Saltcreek-twp that won the game for his "dark horses." Trailing 17-14 at the end of the third period he withdrew Chuck Morris, forward, from the game long enough to lay a plan of action for the fourth period. He told Morris to leave Chilly Chilcote, Saltcreek's grid center, loaf under his basket as his team obtained the ball. He did this and the result was that two field goals were tallied which made quite a difference in the final score. But it was up to him of the finest guards in the tournament, Albert Spangler, to furnish the necessary goal. Taking a pass on the Pickaway-twp foul line, he started to dribble toward his goal with less than a minute to play. The Pickaway defense instead of coming to meet the dribbler fast back to cover other players. Just one reason can be seen for this and that is that Spangler had been dribbling to the center of the court and passing it to one of his mates.

But this time he didn't stop. He dribbled faster and took a leap for the net which saw the final goal of the game tallied. The ball changed hands several times before the game ended but Pickaway was unable to connect.

It was a great basketball game from start to finish. Pickaway started its fast-breaking offense in the first period which ended 4-4. Saltcreek went ahead at the half 11-10 and in the third period with Estell hitting the hoop, the Maple-coached lads took a commanding three point lead. Then Coach Miller ordered Chilcote under the basket and the lead was overcome and the game won.

The contest was a beautiful one to win and a heart-breaking one to lose. Whether the best team was or not no one knows; no one cares. Coach Meyer of Pickaway offered no alibis after the game, but like the real sport he is congratulated Coach Miller on his team. The Saltcreek team, despite its well-earned victory, was handicapped by the absence of Jim Hartrantz, its best scoring forward. This led a substitution

George H. Wilson, 49, Native of Scioto-Twp, Is Claimed Early Monday.

George Harmon Wilson, aged 49, a native of Scioto-twp, passed away at his home at South Bloomfield Sunday at 5 a. m. Complications caused his death.

He was born Jan. 23, 1882 in Scioto-twp, and was the son of William B. and Catherine Caldwell Wilson. He is survived by a sister, Miss Mary Wilson, and a brother, W. T. Wilson, with whom he resided. He was never married.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the South Bloomfield M. E. church with Rev. William Alexander officiating. Burial will be in the Bloomfield cemetery by E. F. Schlegel of Ashville.

DAUGHERTY IS RECALLED

Former Banker to Tell Remainder of His Testimony; May Summon Ballard.

WASHINGTON, C. H., March 2.—Fayette-co courtroom today was to hear the remainder of Mal S. Daugherty's story accounting for failure of the Ohio State Bank of which he had been president.

Daugherty, accused of misapplication of funds entrusted to his bank, was under cross-examination of Special Prosecutor Louis J. Schneider when court was adjourned Saturday. He was testifying in his own defense.

Indications today were that C. P. Ballard, former cashier and first vice-president of the defunct institution may be called to support Daugherty's defense. Ballard has been living in Zanesville since the bank was closed last May.

LEG FRACTURED

Eliza Paxton, 16, high school student, suffered a fractured leg while playing football at the Walnut-st school Saturday afternoon. The lad, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paxton, E. Ohio-st, was injured when "tackled" by a playmate. His injury was reduced by Dr. Lloyd Jones.

GIRLS INJURED

CAMBRIDGE, O., March 2.—Fourteen-year-old Ruth House, star of the Zanesville high school basketball team, is in a critical condition at the Wells hospital today, suffering a broken back and torn ribs as a result of a tournament game at Caldwell Saturday night.

Miss House was participating with the Zanesville team in a game against Belle Valley when she suffered a severe fall which caused her injuries.

Physicians fear she may not be able to recover. She is the daughter of Homer House of Zanesville.

ZANESVILLE, O., March 2.

Burns which resulted when his clothing was ignited by an open fire at his home today caused the death of George Adams, 84-year-old resident of Dresden, at Bethesda hospital here.

FAILED TO STOP IS ORDERED HELD

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Charged with failing to stop his auto to permit a street car to discharge passengers, Harry Griffith, 22, of Richwood, in Union-co, was in the city jail here today awaiting a hearing as the result of an accident that yesterday cost a Columbus man a broken leg.

Although Griffith declared he thought the car was starting away when he approached in his machine, police indicated they will hold him until the regular traffic hearing Thursday unless bond is supplied.

STATE ROAD WORK BEGINS

Contracts For $260,000 Worth of Building Let By State Highway Director.

COLUMBUS, March 2.—Ohio's 1931 road program got underway here with a bang today when State Highway Director O. W. Merrell announced the award of contracts for highway work in twelve counties of the state.

The contract according to figures released by the highway director involve an expenditure of more than $260,000 for road work.

GRAVEL CO. EMPLOYS 50

Sturm-Dillard Begins Operations Monday After Layoff For Improvements.

The Sturm-Dillard gravel washing company began operations on Monday after being "down" for more than a month for repairs and more than 50 men were rehired by the company, according to an announcement by James H. Evans, general superintendent.

At the present no night shift is being used by the company but it will be added shortly. Much new equipment has been installed by the Sturm-Dillard Co.

"PEOPLE DEMAND REPEAL" REPORT

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—More than half of the people of the United States are ready to vote for repeal of the 18th Amendment as soon as Congress authorizes a referendum according to a report of the association against the prohibition amendment published today.

The report stated that more than a fourth of the total population has officially repudiated the 18th Amendment at the polls.

"At least a majority of the American people want prohibition ended. The question is will Congress permit them to give their verdict" the report asked.

BANK CLOSES

RISING SUN, O., Mar. 2.—Declaring they were unable to meet demands because of dwindling deposits, officials of the Sun Savings Bank here today voluntarily closed the institution's doors.

Directors of the bank took the action, they said because they knew they would NOT be able to meet demands and they did not think it necessary to await state banking department requests for them to cease.

R. H. Black of Bowling Green, member of the state bank liquidation department, was temporarily placed in charge of the bank by State superintendents of Banks Ira J. Fulton.

NEWMAN DENIES BANK ROBBERY

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Carried into court on a stretcher, James Newman, Columbus ex-convict, today pleaded not guilty to charges of robbing the bank of Westerville of $6,000 last December 12.

Newman, suffering from bullet wounds received in a gun duel in Los Angeles where he was captured, requested that his trial be delayed until his wife could return to Columbus from Los Angeles with funds to provide for an attorney.

BOWMAN GANG WORK SEEN IN BOLD HOLDUP

Passengers of Blue and Gray Bus Passing Thru Here Robbed Sunday

OBTAIN $578 IN LOOT

Robbery Reported to Police Here; 3 Men Work

PORTSMOUTH, O., Mar. 2.—With the theory that a notorious bandit gang may have returned to its terrorizing tactics after a lay-off of several weeks, police today combed southern Ohio and Kentucky for three men who yesterday modernized the stage-coach holdup and robbed 22 passengers on a Columbus-to-Charleston, W. Va., bus of $578 in cash and fled southward.

After their daring robbery at George Postoffice, seven miles north of Portsmouth, on the Scioto trail, two of the bandits who had been passengers on the bus joined the third who had overtaken the coach in his own car, and crossed the Ohio River bridge into Kentucky, it was reported.

MAY BE BOWMANS

Although police confessed they are without definite clues, they hinted today that the three men may be members of the notorious "Bowman gang" which terrorized southern Ohio several weeks ago, only to take a sudden and unexplained vacation.

Two of the bandits boarded the bus early Sunday morning, having bought tickets for Portsmouth.

The third, believed to have been following from Columbus, in a new car, was seen once when about 10 miles from the scene of the robbery, and when about three miles from the site of the holdup, is reported to have passed the bus.

After parking his car at George Postoffice, the man halted the bus by flagging the driver with a flashlight.

Although slackening the speed of his bus, C. E. Steel, Columbus, did not stop.

Leaping from their seats in the bus, two of the bandits, accomplished produced revolvers and forced the driver to bring the bus, one of the coaches on the Blue & Gray line, to a halt.

Mrs. Emerson T. Graham, Columbus, was the only woman passenger and the only passenger, it was believed, who outwitted the holdup men.

She held her diamond ring in her mouth and kept one foot over her purse, and saved both.

WORE NO MASKS

Edward Moore, second driver of the bus, was threatened with death when he turned his head toward the back of the coach in an attempt to get a look at the faces of the bandits. The men did not attempt to don masks or disguise themselves while conducting the holdup, passengers reported.

Portsmouth victims were lathers and electricians returning home from work in Scranton, Pa. The robbery was staged at about 3:45 a. m.

Steel, the driver of the bus, stopped here on his return trip and notified the local police station to be on the lookout for the trio whom he thought might have redoubled their tracks. No trace of the robbers was found in this county.

FEAR 15 LOST DURING STORM

LONDON, Mar. 2.—A death toll of fifteen was feared today in the wake of a week-end storm over the Irish sea.

A Dutch trawler was found floating bottom up off Roheharly, on the Scottish coast, an Aberdeenshire crew of twelve men was reported missing.

Three men fishing from a motorboat off the Northumberland coast drowned when their boat capsized during a blizzard.

NEIGHBORHOOD FOUND STRICKEN

A neighborhood in Jackson-twp is certainly receiving its amount of tough luck as this story will prove.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Florence, aged 86 and 80 respectively, have pneumonia and influenza; Miss Sallie Williams, aged 80, is ill at her home, and Vernon Grant, aged 80, is suffering from bruises received when he was struck by a cow. All live in the same neighborhood in Jackson-twp.

4 ACCIDENTS ARE REPORTED

No One Seriously Injured In Minor Crashes Near This City Over Week-end.

Several minor accidents, in which several persons were injured, none seriously, are reported in the vicinity of this city over the past week-end.

Melbourne Brown, 18, of Hallsville, is a patient in Berger hospital suffering from a minor scalp wound, a bruised shoulder and arm, after his automobile was struck near Thacher Saturday night. Another youth riding with Brown was uninjured. Brown was treated by Dr. Courtwright and sent to the hospital. He was to be released Monday afternoon.

The name of the driver of the car which collided with Brown's is not known.

Ray Noonan, this city, escaped with bruises when his new Chrysler coupe, was struck by the Essex driven by Homer Starkey of Wellston, north of South Bloomfield Saturday evening. Starkey was lodged in the county jail by Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and promised to pay the costs of repairs on the Noonan car, according to Radcliff.

The body and the fenders of the Noonan Chrysler were badly damaged.

A Graham-Paige, driven by a Miss Jones of Clarksburg and which carried three other women, was damaged considerably at Bell's Sliding at 8 p. m. Saturday when it and a Ford collided on the wet pavement. The Graham-Paige is said to have struck the rear end of the Ford, both traveling north.

The Jones car then struck an abutment at the side of the road. Both cars were taken to the Circleville Motors garage.

Minor injuries were treated here by Dr. Courtwright.

A Willys-Knight, four-door coupe, was found in a field at the Liston farm at Stevenson's crossing Monday morning badly wrecked. None of its occupants could be found by Deputy Sheriff Bob Armstrong, who investigated and no report of the accident could be learned. The license plate number of the car was 454-197.

MISS COATES TO TALK HERE

Citizens Invited to Hear Address Before Benevolent Association Tuesday.

Miss Sarah Coates of Columbus will address the Circleville Benevolent Association at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Monday Club rooms in the Memorial Hall. Miss Coates is executive secretary of the Family Bureau in Columbus, which is caring for 4,000 families.

Her experience will be valuable to officers, organizations and individuals who are interested in helping the unemployed and the unfortunate.

The committee on school lunches will also report. Mrs. R. O. Harrison, social worker will tell of her work in Circleville. Everyone is invited.

YOUTHS HELD

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Discovery of a "juvenile gang" of newsboys and grammar school pupils who stole valuable property and traded it for roller skates, toys and trinkets today had cleared up a wave of petty banditry in down town Columbus, police said.

School Head Out

David G. Millard (above), principal of Rochester, N. Y., High School, ousted after a row with two students, Lyle Knapp and Stuart MacDonald. Three hundred pupils of the school, it is reported, threaten to strike unless Knapp is returned to the school roster.

OHIO HEALTH REPORT MADE

1930 Death Rate Lowest In State Since 1909, Dr. H. G. Southard Discloses.

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 2.—Dr. H. G. Southard today made public statistics which show Ohio's death rate for 1930 to have been the lowest since the present registration system was established in 1900.

The 1930 death rate for the state as compiled by the division of vital statistics, was 11.1 per 1,000, and shows a decline of 5,225 deaths or a decrease of 14 deaths a day.

The principal decreases were in influenza and pneumonia, where the decline was 37 per cent.

Causes of death which indicated an increase for the year are accidental falls, conflagration, heart diseases, enteritis, cancer, automobile accidents, suicides, homicides, diabetes, typhoid fever, anterior poliomyelitis, scarlet fever and smallpox.

Decreases were reported in measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, tuberculosis, and several other diseases.

"There was no major epidemic that resulted in a notable increase in the number of deaths from disease during the year," the report stated.

The 1929 death rate was 12 per 1,000, according to Director Southard's report.

JUDGE ADKINS IS SENT TO LOGAN, O.

Judge Joseph W. Adkins will go to Logan Tuesday to hear testimony in a damage case in Hocking-co common pleas court in the matter of Middle Ingreme against Homer G. Hansel, O. L. Hutchinson and C. E. Slate. It is expected the trial will require three days.

J. W. Defenbaugh of Lancaster and Edwin D. Ricketts, of Logan, former congressman, are attorneys in the suit.

On Monday, March 9, Judge Adkins has been assigned to Ironton common pleas court in a damage suit growing out of an automobile accident.

TO NAME AGENT IN 13TH AREA

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—The situation in the 13th Ohio prohibition district, where only one dry agent, who is not fully commissioned, is operating, is "only temporary," State Prohibition Director Clarence Sears stated today.

"The condition will exist only until I can find another man to take over the job," Sears said.

The situation arose when Lloyd Wine, prohibition inspector of the 13th district was transferred to district 10 in northeastern Ohio.

COUNTY TITLE TILTS DECIDED BY ONE POINT

Pickaway, Ashville Fall Before Winners after Great Contests

CROWD IS LARGE

Dark-horse Wins While Walnut Turns Tables

The annual Pickaway-co basketball tournament came to an end Saturday evening at C. A. C. gym when the Saltcreek-twp boys and the Walnut-twp girls annexed county-wide honors by defeating Pickaway-twp and Ashville in the most thrilling contests of the tournament. Each game was decided by one point, the boys' contest ending 21-20 and the girls' 25-24.

In both games, however, the finish was directly opposite.

Saltcreek overcame a 17-14 lead to come from behind to win its game while the Walnut girls barely protected a five-point lead to carry off the honor of winning the title the last year Pickaway-co girls are permitted to take part in a basketball tournament.

Sensation after sensation found its way into the games with not a single second of either contest lacking in excitement. The 1,000 rabid fans who filled every seat and perch in the spacious gymnasium saw basketball as it is played in very few counties. They saw clean competition, excellent officiating, and above all good sportsmanship among the fans.

All the fans had teams which they wanted to win but no matter which team won and which lost the spirit which prevailed was the same. One of the finest examples of good fellowship was shown after the great Saltcreek-Pickaway game, when the Saltcreek stands gave a rousing cheer for the defeated Pickaway players and crowd.

STRATEGY WINS

It was strategy on the part of Coach Marvin Miller at Saltcreek-twp that won the game for his "dark horses." Trailing 17-14 at the end of the third period he withdrew Chuck Morris, forward, from the game long enough to lay a plan of action for the fourth period. He told Morris to have Chilly Chilcote, Saltcreek's great center, loaf under his basket as his team obtained the ball. He did this and the result was that two field goals were tallied which made quite a difference in the final score. But it was up to one of the finest guards in the tournament, Albert Spangler, to furnish the necessary goal. Taking a pass on the Pickaway-twp foul line he started to dribble toward his goal with less than a minute to play. The Pickaway defense instead of coming to meet the dribbler fell back to cover other players. Just one reason can be seen for this and that is that Spangler had been dribbling to the center of the court and passing it to one of his mates.

But this time he didn't stop. He dribbled faster and took a leap for the net which saw the final goal of the game tallied. The ball changed hands several times before the game ended but Pickaway was unable to connect.

It was a great basketball game from start to finish. Pickaway started its fast-breaking offense in the first period which ended 4-4. Saltcreek went ahead at the half 11-10 and in the third period with Estell hitting the hoop, the Meyer-coached lads took a commanding three point lead. Then Coach Miller ordered Chilcote under the basket and the lead was overcome and the game won.

The contest was a beautiful one to win and a heart-breaking one to lose. Whether the best team won or not no one knows; no one cares, Coach Meyer of Pickaway offered no alibi after the game, but like the real sport he is congratulated Coach Miller on his fine team. The Saltcreek team, despite its well-earned victory, was handicapped by the absence of Jim Hartranft, its best scoring forward. This lad, a sophomore, was in bed Monday and Tuesday with tonsillitis. He played for a time Thursday evening and remained in bed all day Friday, only

Welfare Plans Given Approval

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Widespread editorial indorsement of the proposal of Governor George White that the state enter upon an extensive welfare institution program and insistence that the legislature support his recommendation, have given the proposed financing of the plan a strong endorsement in the minds of Ohio newspapermen.

The Governor urged in his second message to the General Assembly that a $25,000,000 bond issue be provided for enlarging, modernizing and fireproofing state institutions be placed before the voters.

Emphasizing the need for economy in governmental operations that already has characterized the White administration, newspapers generally insist that the institutional needs justify the expenditure which the Governor would spread over a period of ten years.

"The need for the program of improvements which it is proposed to carry out is not open to question," remark the politically independent Scripps-Howard newspapers.

"The penitentiary fire nearly a year ago served in dramatic fashion to call public attention to bad conditions in one state institution. But there are many other institutions that are antiquated and overcrowded, and in some of them the fire hazard is as great as it was in the penitentiary."

"It is Ohio's duty to provide safe, adequate, modern facilities for the care of the state's mentally and physically afflicted wards, as well as for its prisoners."

"And probably there is no method of carrying out the program that would be more speedy and less burdensome than the proposed bond issue." As W. J. Kennedy, assistant welfare director, points out, it will not increase taxes. The levy to retire the welfare bonds will merely take the place of the levy that in the last 10 years, has retired the $25,000,000 Ohio Sol-

All Outdoors

COLUMBUS, O. The 'hoodlum hunter' is one of the problems of the Division of Conservation.

Members of the League of Ohio Sportsmen and Isaac Walton League class the 'hoodlum hunter' with the 'gangsters' of the city. The problem is a similar one, they say. With both on our hands, law enforcement officers must work out plans to cope with the situation.

The 'hoodlum hunter' is not only a pest to the sportsman, but he is also a pest to the law-abiding citizen. Officials of the sportsmen's leagues are in favor of the landowner using his right of guest privilege. They are in favor of hunting or fishing with permission only, and theory that no one has a right to enter upon the lands of another without permission.

The sportsmen's organization cooperating with the American Legion plan to help the Division of Conservation control the 'hoodlum hunter' problem. Together, these organized groups represent not less than 100,000 outdoor men of Ohio who are interested in the 'Save Outdoor Ohio' program and who deplore 'nuisance hunting.'

The big majority of hunters and fishermen come and go, have their day, affix and commit no damage. No one is injured. It is the careless mischief-bent gunner, fisherman or camper who makes trouble for the land owner as well as for decent law-abiding outdoor men.

It has been found by trying it out that Ohio farmers as a rule are willing to grant hunting or fishing privileges to those who come to the front gate and ask permission. They are very gracious in this respect. Sportsmen who seek permission state that they have more invitations to hunt than they can possibly accept from farmer folks from whom they have asked permission to hunt.

The state might purchase public hunting grounds, by lease of surface rights of wastelands, or provide state-owned unfarmable lands for hunting purposes for those who have no other place to go, the sportsmen's leagues and the American Legion Conservation Committee believe. This could be done with hunters' license money.

Pennsylvania has increased her hunter's license fee for this purpose, with the understanding that the increase is to be used for public hunting grounds. This would in a large measure relieve the farmer from the trespass nuisance, some authorities say.

While the state work of conservation, propagation, restocking with fish and game and law enforcement is carried on and financed by the hunters and fishermen of Ohio with their license money without cost to the taxpayers who do not hunt — no appropriation from the general tax fund being spent for this purpose — it must be remembered that the farmers of Ohio furnish seventy-five percent of the land upon which hunting is done; they own the land, they pay the taxes, they pay the upkeep, and it is upon these lands that game is released for restocking purposes, and in streams which flow through Ohio farms that fish are planted.

Except upon small areas of state owned lands, every hunter or fisherman must trespass on property of another in going hunting or fishing. The sportsmen's organization in Ohio are taking an active part in an effort to help the farmers organizations and the land owners in working out better plans for the enforcement of law and for controlling the 'hoodlum' element. These organizations have a large membership of farmers.

Effort will also be made to cause campers and picnic parties to clean their rubbish put out their fires, and to safeguard property of landowners on whose lands they enter. This is to be a part of the conservation program.

COURT will be held under the penal code of the District of Columbia. Higdon accidentally shot Campbell, an Englishman, in the stomach at Alexandria last Monday. Before dying, Campbell explained that the shooting had been accidental. Native witnesses corroborated his statement.

AMERICAN HELD CAIRO, Egypt.—The trial of B. O. Higdon, pursuer of the Dohr liner President Hayes charged with manslaughter will open at the American consulate Monday. It was announced today.

COURT will be held under the penal code of the District of Columbia. Higdon accidentally shot Campbell, an Englishman, in the stomach at Alexandria last Monday. Before dying, Campbell explained that the shooting had been accidental. Native witnesses corroborated his statement.

ASK PROBE OF CITY OFFICIALS COLUMBUS, O.—Five common pleas court judges of Mehmum (to be) to Governor White to have a grand jury investigation of alleged illegal conduct of city officials in a public utilities controversy in Youngstown.

The governor was requested to instruct Attorney General Gilbert Doherty to order a grand jury hearing of the alleged irregularities. Names of the persons against whom complaints were registered were not revealed. Governor White was expected to give the request his attention this afternoon.

FILE REQUEST COLUMBUS, O.—Planning a new service is already formed, the Lorain Street Railroad company today asked the state public utilities commission to record its recent order permitting the Southwestern Bus Co. to add three more buses to its equipment being operated between Elvira, Lorain and Amherst.

The Southwestern firm recently was given temporary authority by the commission to operate on this route as a result of the abandonment of operations by the Cleveland Southwestern Railway and Light Co.

PROVEN PRODUCTS AT LEIST TIRE SHOP

The Tire and Battery Shop being operated at 239 E. Main-st by Mr. Leist is handling the proven products of the Goodrich tires, Willard Batteries, and Cities Oil and Gas.

The Silvertown tires are a well-known tire which are advertised by the company under such a motto as Favorites everywhere and the choice of millions. Other brands of tires are their DeLux and Cavalier which are also proving to be satisfactory. Mr. Leist says: "Don't take a chance of mishaps with old tires but retire now. It saves you time in changing tires and is more protection to your car and the occupants. If you want repair work done on your tires he is equipped for doing that."

A battery service is maintained here also supplying with rentals and recharging of your battery. If you need a new one he can supply you.

A filling service station is operated in connection with his Tire and Battery shop supplying cities oil and gas.

He has a limited supply of personal budget books that are very convenient for keeping accounts. These are free for the asking as long as they last.

Just drive around to this location, 239 E. Main-st where you will find good service and good products.

STOUT'S COMPLETE FILLING STATION

The Stout Brothers of the Stout Sinclair Service Station invites you to get acquainted with their service which is an efficient one. They give a particular service in supplying you gas and oil for your car. In greasing they use the High Pressure system which gets the grease to all the parts so as to afford the most perfect lubrication of the various parts. In the use of the proper oil for the engine its wearing is prolonged so they use the scientific basis of the proper grade of oil to the mileage of the car which is embodied in what is known as The Sinclair Lubrication. "For every machine of every degree of wear there is a scientific oil to suit its speed and seal its power." For cold weather they recommend their Mobiline Oil which is non-congealing and makes starting easier. It is better for the motor and saves on the starter.

As to gasoline they have the three grades, Regular, which has plenty of power and is great on economy and mileage, the High Compression gasoline is as its name implies and the third one is the Sinclair Aircraft gasoline. Messers Stout says: For superior engine performance use Sinclair gasoline.

NEW MILL READY FOR OPERATIONS

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—A new mill providing for employment of 50 men with an annual payroll of $1,000,000, will be built on the site of the former No. 2 work of the Pittsburgh Glass Company. If plans now under way for financing the contemplated $1,500,000 plant are consummated, William Cole, vice president of the Tarentum Steel Corporation, at Tarentum, declared today.

A. W. Barrett, vice president and works manager of the Miller Printing Machinery Company, is president of the Tarentum Steel Company which was organized some time ago with a capitalization of $5,000,000. Issuance of $3,000,000 in stock has been authorized.

"Due to conditions, we held back with our plans," said Cole. Financing of the Tarentum project, which started last year, will be completed, it was said.

GENERAL CONTRACT BUSINESS IS DONE

Barnes and Marion who do a general contracting business are located at 814 S. Court-st and their phone No. is 1006. The firm is composed of T. M. Barnes and F. A. Marion both of whom are well known in the contracting business.

One of their jobs of remodeling is the drug store room of Hall and Gleadell of which they transformed the front into a very attractive one another one of their jobs was the shoring up of the Masonic steel beams. Among the new buildings that they have constructed is the Jackson-twp Central High School Bldg.

They are men of wide experience in building and are prepared to do most any kind of work, the building of residences, business buildings, either in the construction of new ones or the remodeling of old ones. It is surprising how they can take a dilapidated unshapely old building and make it into one of a nice appearance and of good durability.

They are pleased to consult with you about any contemplated building or removal of buildings giving you the benefit of their experience and matured judgments in such matters. The size makes no difference to them whether it be large or small they can take care of all kinds.

MEXICAN SHOW HOUSE BURNED

MEXICO CITY, Mar. 2.—Seven persons were seriously injured today when the Principal theater, famed downtown showhouse built more than 100 years ago, was destroyed by fire.

A major tragedy was averted by the lateness of the hour, which had reduced the audience to a few scattered groups. Five adjoining buildings were damaged by the blaze, which for a time endangered the American Club, located across the street from the theater.

The property loss was estimated at a million pesos, the worst conflagration experienced in the capital for more than a year. The blaze originated, according to reports, when an actor dropped a lighted cigaret against a curtain.

Welfare Plans Given Approval

COLUMBUS, O., March 2.—Widespread editorial endorsement of the proposal of Governor George White that the state enter upon an extensive welfare institution program and insistence that the legislature support his recommendation that the proposed financing of the plan be submitted to the people is noted in Ohio newspapers.

The Governor urged in his second message to the General Assembly that a $25,000,000 bond issue to provide for enlarging, modernizing and fireproofing state institutions be placed before the voters.

Emphasizing the need for economy in governmental operations that already has characterized the White administration, newspapers generally insist that the institutional needs justify the expenditure which the Governor would spread over a period of ten years.

"The need for the program of improvements which it is proposed to carry out is not open to question," remark the politically independent Scripps-Howard newspapers.

"The penitentiary fire nearly a year ago served in dramatic fashion to call public attention to bad conditions in one state institution. But there are many other institutions that are antiquated and overcrowded, and in some of them the fire hazard is as great as it was in the penitentiary."

"It is Ohio's duty to provide safe, adequate, modern facilities for the care of the state's mentally and physically afflicted wards, as well as for its prisoners."

"And probably there is no method of carrying out the program that would be more speedy and less burdensome than the proposed bond issue. As W. J. Kennedy, assistant welfare director, points out, it will not increase taxes. The levy to retire the welfare bonds will merely take the place of the levy than, in the last 10 years, has retired the $25,000,000 Ohio Soldiers' bonus bond issue. "The welfare bonds should be submitted to a vote of the people. We believe the people will approve them."

Indicating some impatience over the progress made so far in the legislature, The Cleveland Plain Dealer observes:

"Under the circumstances the only sound policy seems to be to curtail expenses wherever feasible. Obviously, this is no time to consider salary increases except in rare cases amounting to emergencies. On the contrary, the slashing of pay rolls and the elimination of unessential services are more than every timely."

"Besides bequeathing to his successor a treasury deficit of generous proportions, former Gov. Cooper left him also department pay rolls expanded to a degree difficult now to finance, even were one to admit the soundness of their expansion on other grounds. It may have been a fine philanthropic, and perhaps political, gesture for Mr. Cooper to give jobs to so many in a period of widespread unemployment, but it becomes embarrassing on pay day to a state financially distraught."

"Governor White pledged himself in the campaign to an administration of rigid economy. In six weeks at the State House he has shown he meant exactly what he said. Salary lists are being pruned. Superfluous jobs are going by the rubbish route. "It is clear, in view of the general financial situation, that the state cannot inaugurate an adequate building program for its penal and welfare institutions—one of the state's gravest needs—on any basis of current tax revenue. Governor White recommended six weeks ago that this program be financed in the way the state financed its soldier bonus ten years ago; that is, by the issuance of bonds to be retired by levy. The last of the bonus bonds are now being paid. In a sense, therefore, the penal and welfare institutions could be built without adding to the tax burden; the state would merely take on one load as it drops the other."

"Such a plan must, of course, be submitted to popular vote. Mr. White asks that it be submitted next November. It is time for the Legislature to consider seriously this recommendation."

STATE OF MIND WEAKEST THING

COLUMBUS, O.—The weakest thing in the country today is NOT the low commodity price level, but the nations state of mind." B. O. Forbes, noted New York editor and publisher, told more than 500 Columbus business and professional men here last night.

Forbes declared that there has been a tremendous change in the attitude of the bankers and business men of the country during the past two months, however.

AMERICAN HELD
CAIRO, Egypt.—The trial of B. O. Higdon, pursuer of the Dollar liner President Hayes charged with manslaughter will open at the American consulate Monday, it was announced today.

Court will be held under the penal code of the District of Columbia. Higdon accidentally shot Colin Campbell, an Englishman, in the stomach at Alexandria last Monday. Before dying, Campbell explained that the shooting had been accidental. Native witnesses corroborated his statement.

All Outdoors

COLUMBUS, O.—The 'hoodlum hunter' is one of the problems of the Division of Conservation.

Members of the League of Ohio Sportsmen and Isaak Walton League class the 'hoodlum' hunter with the 'gangsters' of the city. The problem is a similar one, they say. With both on our hands, law enforcement officers must work out plans to cope with the situation. The hoodlum hunter like the gangster represents only a small minority, but uncontrolled he can make things miserable for decent law-abiding citizens.

Officials of the sportsmen's leagues are in favor of the landowner using his right of guest privilege. They are in favor of hunting or fishing with permission only, on theory that no one has a right to enter upon the lands of another without permission.

The sportsmen's organization cooperating with the American Legion plan to help the Division of Conservation control the 'hoodlum hunter' problem. Together, these organized groups represent not less than 100,000 outdoor men of Ohio who are interested in the 'Save Outdoor Ohio' program and who deplore 'nuisance hunting.'

The big majority of hunters and fishermen come and go, have their day afield and commit no damage. No one is injured. It is the careless mischief-bent gunner, fisherman or camper who makes trouble for the land owner as well as for decent law-abiding outdoor men. It has been found by trying it out that Ohio farmers as a rule are willing to grant hunting or fishing privileges to those who come to the front gate and ask permission. They are very gracious in this respect. Sportsmen who seek permission state that they have more invitations to hunt than they can possibly accept from farmer folks from whom they have asked permission to hunt.

The state might purchase public hunting grounds, by lease of surface rights of wastelands, or provide state-owned unfarmable lands for hunting purposes for those who have no other place to go, the sportsmen's leagues and the American Legion Conservation Committee believe. This could be done with hunters' license money. Pennsylvania has increased her hunter's license fee for this purpose, with the understanding that the increase is to be used for public hunting grounds. This would in a large measure relieve the farmer from the trespass nuisance, some authorities say.

While the state work of conservation, propagation, restocking with fish and game and law enforcement is carried on and financed by the hunters and fishermen of Ohio with their license money without cost to the taxpayers who do not hunt — no appropriation from the general tax fund being spent for this purpose—it must be remembered that the farmers of Ohio furnish seventy-five percent of the land upon which hunting is done; they own the land, they pay the taxes, they pay the upkeep, and it is upon these lands that game is released for restocking purposes, and in streams which flow through Ohio farms that fish are planted.

Except upon small areas of state owned lands, every hunter or fisherman must trespass on property of another in going hunting or fishing. The sportsmen's organization in Ohio are taking an active part in an effort to help the farmers organizations and the land owners in working out better plans for the enforcement of law and for controlling the 'hoodlum' element. These organizations have a large membership of farmers. Effort will also be made to cause campers and picnic parties to clean their rubbish, put out their fires, and to safeguard property of landowners on whose lands they enter. This is to be a part of the conservation program.

ASK PROBE OF CITY OFFICIALS
COLUMBUS, O.—Five common pleas court judges of Mahoning co. appealed to Governor White today for a grand jury investigation of alleged illegal conduct of city officials in a public utilities controversy in Youngstown.

The governor was requested to instruct Attorney General Gilbert Betman to order a grand jury hearing of the alleged irregularities. Names of the persons against whom complaints were registered were not revealed. Governor White was expected to give the request his attention this afternoon.

FILE REQUEST
COLUMBUS, O.—Claiming adequate service is already furnished, the Lorain Street Railroad company today asked the state public utilities commission to rescind its recent order permitting the Southwestern Bus Co. to add three more buses to its equipment being operated between Elyria, Lorain and Amherst. The Southwestern firm recently was given temporary authority by the commission to operate over this route as a result of the abandonment of operations by the Cleveland Southwestern Railway and Light Co.

PROVEN PRODUCTS AT LEIST TIRE SHOP

The Tire and Battery Shop being operated at 239 E. Main-st by Mr. Leist is handling the proven products of the Goodrich tires, Willard Batteries and Cities Oil and Gas.

The Silvertown tires are a well-known tire which are advertised by the company under such a motto as Favorites everywhere and the choice of millions. Other brands of tires are their DeLuxe and Cavalier which are also proving to be satisfactory. Mr. Leist says: "Don't take a chance of mishaps with old tires but retire now. It saves you time in changing tires and is more protection to your car and the occupants. If you want repair work done on your tires he is equipped for doing that."

A battery service is maintained here also supplying with rentals and recharging of your battery. If you need a new one he can supply you.

A filling service station is operated in connection with his Tire and Battery shop supplying cities oil and gas.

He has a limited supply of personal budget books that are very convenient for keeping accounts. These are free for the asking as long as they last.

Just drive around to this location, 239 E. Main-st where you will find good service and good products.

STOUT'S COMPLETE FILLING STATION

The Stout Brothers of the Stout Sinclair Service Station invites you to get acquainted with their service which is an efficient one. They give a particular service in supplying you gas and oil for your car. In greasing they use the High Pressure system which gets the grease to all the parts so as to afford the most perfect lubrication of the various parts. In the use of the proper oil for the engine they use the scientific basis of the proper grade of oil to the mileage of the car which is embodied in what is known as The Sinclair Law of lubrication "For every machine of every degree of wear there is a scientific oil to suit its speed, and seal its power." For cold weather they recommend their Mobiline Oil which is non-congealing and makes starting easier. It is better for the motor and saves on the starter.

As to gasoline they have the three grades. Regular, which has plenty of power and is great on economy and mileage, the High Compression gasoline is as its name implies and the third one is the Sinclair Aircraft gasoline. Messrs. Stout says: For superior engine performance use Sinclair gasoline.

NEW MILL READY FOR OPERATIONS
PITTSBURGH, Pa.—A new mill, providing for employment of 500 men with an annual payroll of $1,000,000, will be built on the site of the former No. 2 works of the Pittsburgh Glass Company, if plans now under way for financing the contemplated $1,500,000 plant are consummated, William Cole, vice president of the Tarentum Steel Corporation, at Tarentum, declared today.

A. W. Barrett, vice president and works manager of the Miller Printing Machinery Company, is president of the Tarentum Steel Company which was organized some time ago with a capitalization of $5,000,000. Issuance of $3,000,000 in stock has been authorized. "Due to conditions, we held back with our plans," said Cole. Financing of the Tarentum project, which started last year, will be completed, it was said.

KEEPING ABREAST WITH THE TIMES

Do you give advertising the High Hat? Well no, why not, because you want to keep abreast the times and no man or woman can be familiar with what is happening without giving attention to the newspaper advertisements of the present day.

Things are transpiring every day in the development of new materials and processes that effect the life of the individual. Not only are new being formed but new uses are being made of the old.

The use of printing is a necessity in social and business affairs the style of which is exemplary of what is represented by it. If you wish to obtain printing of quality and engravings of designs that are best expressive of what is to be conveyed. We have a place equipped to serve you at the Fitzpatrick printery.

It will be his pleasure to help you in a selection.

GENERAL CONTRACT BUSINESS IS DONE

Barnes and Marion who do a general contracting business are located at 814 S. Court-st and their phone No. is 1006. The firm is composed of T. M. Barnes and F. A. Marion both of whom are well-known in the contracting business.

One of their jobs of remodeling is the drug store room of Hall and Gleadell of which they transformed the front into a very attractive one, another one of their jobs was the shoring up of the Masonic steel beams. Among the new buildings that they have constructed is the Jackson-twp. Central High School Bldg.

They are men of wide experience in building and are prepared to do most any kind of work, the building of residences, business buildings, either in the construction of new ones or the remodeling of old ones. It is surprising how they can take a dilapidated unsightly old building and make it into one of a nice appearance and of good durability.

They are pleased to consult with you about any contemplated building or removal of buildings giving you the benefit of their experience and matured judgments in such matters. The size makes no difference to them whether it be large or small they can take care of all kinds.

MEXICAN SHOW HOUSE BURNED

MEXICO CITY, Mar. 2.—Seven persons were seriously injured today when the Principal theater, famed downtown showhouse built more than 100 years ago, was destroyed by fire.

A major tragedy was averted by the lateness of the hour, which had reduced the audience to a few scattered groups. Five adjoining buildings were damaged by the blaze, which for a time endangered the American Club, located across the street from the theater. The property loss was estimated at a million pesos, the worst conflagration experienced in the capital for more than a year. The blaze originated, according to reports, when an actor dropped a lighted cigaret against a curtain.

LA PAZ, Bolivia.—The formal opening of congress here has been awaited with keen anticipation, as it signifies return to constitutional rule. The Junta, in power since last summer's revolution, will soon relinquish all control.

WARSAW.—Polish railroads will be expanded and reorganized with new finances available through the formation of a Franco-Polish company. While the Polish interest provide the existing railway facilities, the French company will contribute a billion francs to the program of reconstruction.

PARIS.—Bankers in conjunction with government officials are planning another international financial institution, which would be bank as planned would be a supplementary unit of the bank for settlements at Basle.

BRUSSELS.—The Belgian chamber of Deputies, overriding strong government opposition by a vote of 86 to 70, has legalized cremation. The subject has long been one of the bitterest fought issues in the chamber.

STATE WILL BE INVITED TO THE YORKTOWN SESQUICENTENNIAL

RICHMOND, Va.—Virginia's invitation to the people of Ohio to participate in the Yorktown Sesquicentennial next October will be conveyed by Lieutenant-Governor James H. Price when he appears before a joint session of the Ohio General Assembly Thursday, Feb. 26, as the personal representative of Governor John G. Garland Pollard. The nation-wide celebration will open October 16 and close October 19, the one hundredth and fiftieth anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis.

Ohio is expected to play an important part in the coming celebration. Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald, of Ohio, is one of the eleven members of the United States Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission, and had taken a leading role in the planning of the elaborate four-day program.

Famous military organizations of Ohio are expected to take part in the military demonstration, in which every arm of the United States military service will be represented.

The United States Sesquicentennial Commission, appointed by President Hoover, the Virginia State Commission, named by Governor Pollard, and the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association are cooperating to make the celebration one of the greatest of its kind ever held by the nation.

Albert R. Rogers, who directed the Massachusetts Bay tercentenary, has been named director of celebration and is now engaged in preparing the elaborate program.

Celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to General Washington will be one of thanksgiving and pageantry. President Hoover already has accepted an invitation to attend, while France, England, Germany, Poland and other nations are expected to participate in the four-day event. North, East, South, and West will

"WOMAN PAYS" IS CONCLUDED IN MIAMI U. QUESTIONNAIRE

OXFORD, O., Feb. 27.—The old catchword that "the woman pays and pays" was given a boost in the University world when an intensive investigation into the expenditures of the students of Miami University, typical co-educational school, was completed recently by the statistical department of the School of Business Administration.

The investigation covered the first semester term, from September, 1930, to February, 1931, and included thirty per cent of the student body, over 700 questionnaires being filled out. These questionnaires were well distributed among the various classes of students and unquestionably form a representative set of figures on the whole student body.

The questionnaires submitted to the students were most inclusive, even down to such expenditures as those for soda fountain supplies, the amount expended by the women.

Contrary to popular supposition, the man does not always pay the soda fountain check, the figures revealing that men spend only $1.24 more for fountain products than women.

The proverbial myths concerning the greenishness of the freshmen and his financial gullibility were given a rap. The compiled statistics proved that the first-year students spend from two to ten dollars less per capita for miscellaneous articles than do the other classes, and under this miscellaneous heading would come the classical chapel tickets, radiol rent, and restaurant-booth fees.

In the class division, the freshman and junior class totals for clothing were found to be much higher than the sophomore and senior class expenditures. The reason for this was supposed to be that the freshman stocked up on his clothes when he entered school and did not wear his pants thin until his junior year, when he was forced to stock up again.

The questionnaires included the statements of the geographical aspect of the purchases, and it was found that the total buying power in Oxford of the 2,200 Miami students reached the amazing sum of classical chapel tickets, radiol

The Sesquicentennial will be climaxed by a military and naval demonstration in which battleships of the United States and other nations and militia from the Thirteen Original States will take part. Appearing in the colorful parade will be soldiers wearing uniforms similar to those of their forefathers in the struggle for American independence.

Yorktown is much the same little village it was when hostilities were suspended and the reverberation of the last gun died away across the blue waters of the York. The Moore house in which the articles of peace were signed, still stands. America's first customs house, the old church which has seen the ravages of two wars, the Digges house and the Nelson home are there. The old courthouse remains with its time-stained records reaching back through the centuries. Most of the buildings which stood while the guns emitted their last flame and shell of the war for American independence, have spurred modernity and stand as monuments to the little town's illustrious past.

chased outside of Oxford, and that mostly in the home towns of the students, was clothing.

The statistics were compiled by Prof. Charles H. Sandage of the Miami School of Business Administration with a view to determining the buying power of the Miami student body.

TEACHERS O.K. U.S.'S DRY LAW

DETROIT—Amid loud cheering which turned to equally lusty jeering when a lone New Jersey delegate voiced the threat of opposition, the superintendents division of the national education association today endorsed the prohibition law by an overwhelming vote at its 61st annual convention here. The resolution passed by the assembled delegates read:

"We affirm our belief in the eighteenth amendment as the most effective means to curtail the distribution and use of alcohol. We call upon the teachers of the nation to cultivate both in their own attitude and in their teaching a respect for this law."

Thus did the educators disprove of the "wet-dry" issue which threatened to engulf the convention, which has brought 10,000 teachers and school officials to Detroit.

Before the resolutions committee late yesterday, a measure calling upon the educators to take a stand for repeal of the prohibition law was voted down. It had been introduced by Dr. Danier Kealey, superintendent of schools of Ken, N. J.

When the "bone-dry" question came before the delegates, Dr. Kealey attempted to speak with a speech, but he was and jeered from the floor of the convention.

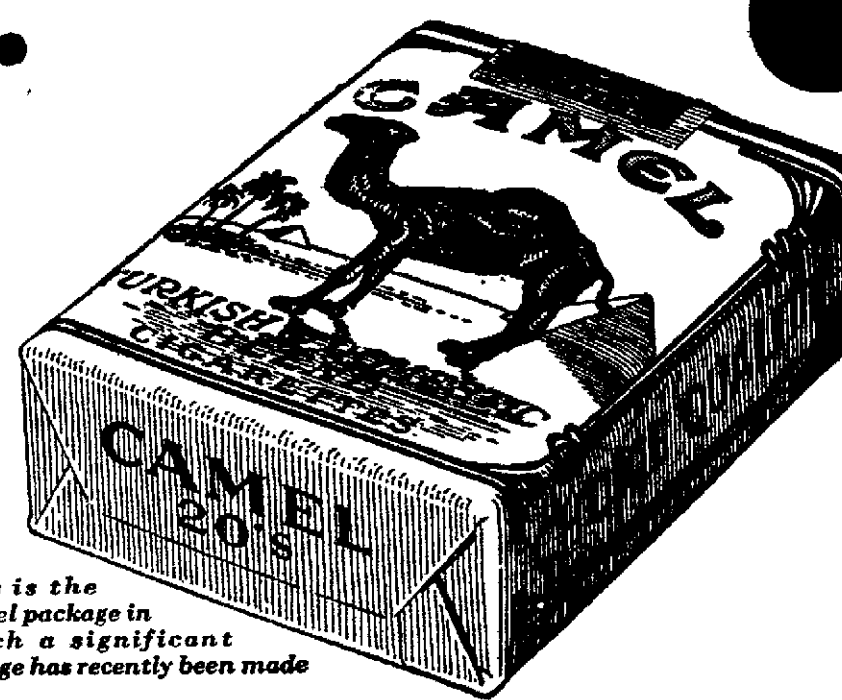

They talk of dry education but it is hard to see how education can be any drier.

Capt. Denis Rooke

Intrepid Airman

CAPT. DENIS ROOKE, amazing soldier of fortune, made one of the most spectacular flights in the entire history of aviation on his famous solo flight from London to India by light plane. Flying a tiny single-engined Moth plane, the daring captain, unaccompanied, accomplished the 7000-mile flight through a series of breath-taking adventures.

Flying 100 miles over the sea and landing in Aboukir at night without flares; battling a storm over the Strait of Messina, where his tiny craft seemed made of paper in the wind's fury; escaping by the skin of his teeth the attack of a hostile Bedouin tribe—this was all part of the job for Captain Rooke.

Born in India of English parents (his father was Dr. Ernest Morley Rooke, chief medical officer of the Bengal Nagpur Railway), Captain Rooke was a soldier in the World War. He fought at Gallipoli, in Egypt and on the Western Front, and was an aviator in the Third Afghan War. His peace-time pursuits have been tremendously varied, including such oddly assorted activities as captain of his own ship in the South Seas and director of logging operations in Australia. He was educated in England and Germany.

In his vivid illustrated lecture he recounts the story of a thousand thrills and endows the narrative of his historic flight with marvelous vitality. He is a vivid and humorous speaker, telling many delightful anecdotes of famous people. Personal meetings with Colonel Lindbergh in Paris—with Kaiser Wilhelm at Godesberg on Rhine—with the Prince of Wales in London—are interestingly described.

STATE WILL BE INVITED TO THE YORKTOWN SESQUICENTENNIAL

RICHMOND, Va.—Virginia's invitation to the people of Ohio to participate in the Yorktown Sesquicentennial next October will be conveyed by Lieutenant-Governor James H. Price when he appears before a joint session of the Ohio General Assembly Thursday, Feb. 26, as the personal representative of Governor John Gerland Pollard. The nation-wide celebration will open October 16 and close October 19, the one hundredth and fiftieth anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis.

Ohio is expected to play an important part in the coming celebration. Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald, of Ohio, is one of the eleven members of the United States Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission, and had taken a leading role in the planning of the elaborate four-day program.

Famous military organizations of Ohio are expected to take part in the military demonstration, in which every arm of the United States military service will be represented.

The United States Sesquicentennial Commission, appointed by President Hoover, the Virginia State Commission, named by Governor Pollard, and the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association are cooperating to make the celebration one of the greatest of its kind ever held by the nation.

Albert R. Rogers, who directed the Massachusetts Bay tercentenary, has been named director of celebration and is now engaged in preparing the elaborate program.

Celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to General Washington will be one of thanksgiving and pageantry. President Hoover already has accepted an invitation to attend, while France, England, Germany, Poland and other nations are expected to participate in the four-day event. North, East, South, and West will come to Yorktown to take part in this pageant of peace and to honor the American and French forces, whose years of struggle culminated in American independence.

A pageant will be presented, depicting the momentous events of the Revolutionary War from the time the first shot was fired at Lexington until the guns were silenced when Lord Cornwallis laid down his arms on October 19, 1781, and surrendered his British Army to General Washington. Governors and other representatives from the Thirteen Original States and those within the original territory, together with others from every State in the union, are expected to take part in the celebration.

The Sesquicentennial will be climaxed by a military and naval demonstration in which battleships of the United States and other nations and militia from the Thirteen Original States will take part. Appearing in the colorful parade will be soldiers wearing uniforms similar to those of their forefathers in the struggle for American independence.

Yorktown is much the same little village it was when hostilities were suspended and the reverberation of the last gun died away across the blue waters of the York. The Moore house in which the articles of peace were signed, still stands. America's first customs house, the old church which has seen the ravages of two wars, the Digges house and the Nelson home are there. The old courthouse remains with its time-stained records reaching back through the centuries. Most of the buildings which stood while the guns emitted their last flame and shell of the war for American independence, have spurned modernity and stand as monuments to the little town's illustrious past.

Contrary to popular supposition, the man does not always pay the soda fountain check, the figures revealing that men spend only $1.24 more for fountain products than women.

The proverbial myths concerning the greenishness of the freshmen and his financial gullibility were given a rap. The compiled statistics proved that the first-year students spend from two to ten dollars less per capita for miscellaneous articles than do the other classes, and under this miscellaneous heading would come the classical chapel tickets, radiator rent, and restaurant-booth fees.

In the class division, the freshman and junior class totals for clothing were found to be much higher than the sophomore and senior class expenditures. The reason for this was supposed to be that the freshman stocked up on his clothes when he entered school and did not wear his pants thin until his junior year, when he was forced to stock up again.

The questionnaires included the statements of the geographical aspect of the purchases, and it was found that the total buying power in Oxford of the 2,200 Miami students reached the amazing sum of $1,275,000. The chief article purchased outside of Oxford, and that mostly in the home towns of the students, was clothing.

The statistics were compiled by Prof. Charles H. Sandage of the Miami School of Business Administration with a view to determining the buying power of the Miami student body.

TEACHERS O.K. U.S.S DRY LAW

DETROIT—Amid loud cheering which turned to equally lusty jeering when a lone New Jersey delegate voiced the threat of opposition, the superintendents division of the national education association today endorsed the prohibition law by an overwhelming vote at its 61st annual convention here. The resolution passed by the assembled delegates read: "We affirm our belief in the eighteenth amendment as the most effective means to curtail the distribution and use of alcohol. We call upon the teachers of the nation to cultivate both in their own attitude and in their teaching a respect for this law."

Thus did the educators dispose of the "wet-dry" issue which threatened to engulf the convention, which has brought 15,000 teachers and school officials to Detroit.

Before the resolutions committee late yesterday, a measure calling upon the educators to take a stand for repeal of the prohibition law was voted down. It had been introduced by Dr. Daniel Kealey, superintendent of schools at Hoboken, N. J.

When the "bone-dry" resolution came before the delegates today, Dr. Kealey attempted to oppose it with a speech, but he was booed and jeered from the floor of the convention.

They talk of dry education but it is hard to see how education can be any drier.

Capt. Denis Rooke Intrepid Airman

CAPT. DENIS ROOKE, amazing soldier of fortune, made one of the most spectacular flights in the entire history of aviation on his famous solo flight from London to India by light plane. Flying a tiny single-engined Moth plane, the daring captain, unaccompanied, accomplished the 7000-mile flight through a series of breath-taking adventures.

Flying 400 miles over the sea and landing in Aboukir at night without flares; battling a storm over the Strait of Messina, where his tiny craft seemed made of paper in the wind's fury; escaping by the skin of his teeth the attack of a hostile Bedouin tribe—this was all part of the job for Captain Rooke.

Born in India of English parents (his father was Dr. Ernest Morley Rooke, chief medical officer of the Bengal Nagpur Railway), Captain Rooke was a soldier in the World War. He fought at Gallipoli, in Egypt and on the Western Front, and was an aviator in the Third Afghan War. His peace-time pursuits have been tremendously varied, including such oddly assorted activities as captain of his own ship in the South Seas and director of logging operations in Australia. He was educated in England and Germany.

In his vivid illustrated lecture he recounts the story of a thousand thrills and endows the narrative of his historic flight with marvelous vitality. He is a vivid and humorous speaker, telling many delightful anecdotes of famous people. Personal meetings with Colonel Lindbergh in Paris—with Kaiser Wilhelm at Godesberg on Rhine—with the Prince of Wales in London—are interestingly described.

The Soldiers' Loan

OUR training in matters of great sums of money and our knowledge in economics, does not permit us to judge logically what effect the increased loan on compensation certificates will have on the economic structure of our country.
We believe President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon were sincere in their opposition and their viewpoint should be admired in the face of tremendous opposition.
No matter, however, if the measure is economic or otherwise, no one is more entitled to this consideration than our World War veterans. Perhaps a suggestion at this time would not be out of place, when business men are facing this great depression—and that is—for the veterans to spend some of this money that will be borrowed on their certificates, for things that are needed.
To borrow this money and then not put it to practical use would not be of much assistance in helping the economic depression—and this was one of the arguments used that was favorable to its passing over President Hoover's veto.

The First Years

If the psychologists continue, as some are disposed, to push back the age at which the "permanent set" is given to the character and disposition of the child, human life will be, in these respects at least, predestinated at birth or even prenatally.
For many generations a remark, imputed to a Jesuit priest, has been handed on without scientific confirmation of its implication as to the exclusive importance of the first seven years and as to the importance of later influence to alter the spiritual nature of the child. Some psychologists see the heaven that the poet pictures as lying about the infant displaced by the "emotional patterns" that prophesy the grown-up behavior of the child—the shades of the prison-house which begin to close upon it before it becomes even the growing boy. These patterns, they contend, are pretty well laid down before the end of the second year of infancy. It is the infant, therefore, not the seven-year-old boy, who is father to the man.
The traditional claim of the priest and the newer theories of the scientists are not, however, unchallenged. No parent, having given a child a careful moral rearing of seven years, would be willing thereafter to surrender that child to a gypsy or a slum environment or to a Fagin.
What moral progress could be expected for the race if over the portal to the eighth year of life were written, "Abandon hope of any after change all ye who enter here?"

Bulwark of Sanity

A spirit of restlessness prevails throughout the world. Like the fretful child that doesn't know what ails it, the world bawls and kicks. Assassinations and attempted assassinations have become almost daily occurrences. Abductions, revolutions and other political eruptions come in such rapid succession as to crown each other out of the news and public attention. No continent is spared from the tidal wave from this economic quake.
Bombs burst in the home of the Mexican president. King Zog goes accounting and is placed on the "spit" by 500 self-styled patriots. South America is convulsed by presidents like so much undergarment and the King of Spain is left with but his crown. In the Orient revolution and civil war are in the air.
In this world of violence and disorder the United States and Canada are peaceful with the exception of a few wars and border shenanigans. Even Chicago's recent crime has been quiet and quiet.
This contrast between people and nations explains why there is little fear from the Red menace and similar terrors in North America. Here political and social changes come by process of evolution, not by revolution. Liberty and the right of self-determination are defended by the ballot rather than by bullets. Assassinations have been infrequent on this continent and those few have been the bewildered acts of the demented.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, beautiful and romantic, heeds her mother's warning against marrying a poor man and gives up Mat Tully. She accepts the attentions of Jack Beamer who plans to divorce his rich wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with Roger Decatur, a handsome ranger, and marries him. At first she is happy in his mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a long trip, she flees to her home. Without informing her family of her marriage, she re-enters the old social life. Beamer is as ardent as ever, but Nancy repulses his embraces. Roger's letters arouse Mrs. Hollenbeck's suspicions. Nancy pleads with Roger to meet her at a hotel. She waits in vain. Beamer enters the lobby and takes her to tea. She tells him of Roger but not of the marriage. Beamer receives a jolt when his wife refuses to divorce him.

CHAPTER XXXV.

If she could only forget Roger, as he had forgotten her! He thought more of his work than of her. Why couldn't she care more for her life, her future, than for him? Why couldn't she be happy thinking about Jack? Why did she have to think about Roger, even when Jack was talking to her, even while she was planning the clothes she would have, the jewels, the lovely home?
Well, she would get over it. She'd make her self get over thinking about Roger. He'd let her sit for hours in a hotel lobby, amongst strangers, waiting for him, after he had begged him to come, laid his heart bare, told him how much she needed him.
Even his name came late.
When she thought of that her eyes darkened with anger. They were right, mama and the others. It didn't pay to love. To scrub and cook and wash dishes and never think of yourself. She had been a fool, a silly, wicked fool. She was paying for it now. For the crazy, happy days last summer, for her poor, brief honeymoon.

Accepts Gift.

No use crying over spilt milk, but it's so hard, so hard, when you've cared so much.
Never again! No more wild ecstasies for Nancy. No more heartbreak. She'd let the man do all the caring next time. Her next marriage would be different. She'd let Jack give her a diamond bauble.
The family would have a fit if they knew it, but they didn't have to know it. Nor about the taxi arrangement either. Jack had arranged to have all her taxi bills charged to him. He couldn't take her places in his car, they had to be so careful of what people would think. "And I'm certainly not going to have you riding in street cars," he argued. Why quarrel with him? She let him have his way.
She met him "accidentally" on corners. In moving picture houses. In little grills, and restaurants with private boxes. It wasn't much fun, meeting that way, but what else could they do? At least it was better than going for rides in the country.
The rides were all right, or they would have been if he were content to ride. But he was always wanting to stop. To park, and... well, "park" was hardly the word to apply to a millionaire's love-making but that was what it amounted to for Nancy.
At last she was a redit to mama's training. She thought of so many ways to avoid being kissed. "Oh, Jack, let me give me a cigarette... let's go on to the next town and get something to eat..." It rather amused

She felt all the life oozing out of her. "Yes... who... who is it?"

Jack. She wasn't really cold. Just scared, poor kid. Worried about his wife. Well, he'd fix that.
"We'll be married in Spring," he told Nancy over and over. "Trust me—I'll get this divorce, and get it soon!"
He wished he could believe it himself. Anita hadn't gone back to Reno. She made it very plain that she had no intention of ever going there again. She stayed on in the Jackson Street house. There had come a smug look about her mouth. She thought she was cheating him out of happiness. But he knew she couldn't do it for long. Something might cheat her—something that had been waiting for her a long time, something that had already marked her for its own. Death.
Dr. Snelling, her physician, had warned him. "Don't let this alarm you unduly, Beamer. Remember, bad hearts sometimes surprise us. She may outlive you, man. But at the same time your wife is in a serious condition. The least excitement, the least physical strain and..." Dr. Snelling held up his hand. "She may go like that—like that!"
Jack thought about that when she looked too smug. He wouldn't do anything to precipitate the end, of course. But he watched for it. Sometimes he fancied the shadow was already upon her. He was gentle with her then. When her maid telephoned that she was confined to her bed, he came to see her and sent flowers. Funny how it pleased her, bought with her own money. He must remember to send her other things. He had been prodigal with his gifts in the first year or two of their marriage when he was still impressed with all she had done for him... lifting him up out of poverty, giving him stables and thoroughbreds. Poor Anita! Sometimes he felt almost grateful to her in spite of everything. Her age. Her broken, yellow hair. Her hungry, pleading eyes that followed him everywhere. Even this new wrinkle of hers, refusing a divorce.

Her Reply.

"It's Roger, Nancy. I'm in town. At Sixteenth Street Depot. I'll be right out."
She thought she heard him hanging up. She sobbed into the black open mouth of the telephone. "No, no, no... you mustn't! Roger... wait... wait, do you hear me? Operator, you cut me off..."
Roger's voice again. "You mean you won't see me?"
"Yes, that's it. That's the best way. She wanted to say, but instead she heard herself crying. "No, no. It's just that I... Wait there at the depot—I'll be there—five minutes..."

Sixteenth Street Station, Oakland, is built on filled-in ground. It vibrates when the long-trains from the East bear down upon it, rounding the curve. It shivers when the locals on the elevated tracks—for a few hundred yards the West boats, an elevated-rattle by overhead.
Through its wide doors the wind from the bay blows smartly, bearing on its breath the smell of salt marshes, low-tide, tar, clams. So that only in the corners does the smell of waiting linger. Most of the atmosphere of farewells, welcomes, nervous waiting is swept out on the pungent breeze.
A cold, unhappy place with none of the merry bustle of other stations. A place to board a train, that's all.
Roger Decatur, more tired than he knew after his hours of travel, sat in a corner with a battered brown bag between his knees and an unopened newspaper in his hands. He had watched the door, staring into the bright sun until his eyes ached.
The minute he turned his eyes away her taxi drove up and she got out.

Nancy's Surprise.

Yes, he had been good to her, he decided. He had given her the best years of his life to her. If she didn't take too long about divorcing him, he might even go into mourning for her for a while. She would like that. He would build the best mausoleum money could buy.
Nancy could wait. Then they'd show the world what real entertaining was like...
"The flowers are lovely, dear," she smiled at him, patting them.

Sties May Indicate Run-Down Condition
—Eye-Strain Usually Present, Too.

A "Crop" of These Localized Inflammations Is Often the Result of Poor Health, Says Dr. Copeland. Suggesting Treatment.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

STIES are common nuisances and easily recognized. They are rather unpleasant to look at, and you are told by every one you meet, "I know what you have; you have a stye."

Next time you have a stye, you should be bathed with boric acid. Continuous application of heat helps shorten the duration of this condition. It greatly reduces the swelling and pain.

In severe cases where this simple treatment is not successful, it is necessary to open the infected area. Following the procedure with liberation of pus, prompt relief is afforded.

To those individuals who are susceptible to these infections, it is advisable to use a salve of yellow oxide of mercury. A bit of it is applied to the lids before retiring. Thorough bathing of the eyes and lids with warm boric acid solution in the morning will help to keep the parts clean and less likely to become infected again.

I should be remembered that sties usually indicate poor health. Often the cause is a faulty diet, lack of fresh air and rest.

Quite frequently it is associated with eye defects and unnecessary eye strain. The presence of a stye is an abundant reason for having the eyes tested. Suitable glasses should be had if the examination reveals any defect.

In the severe cases, particularly those of frequent recurrence, treatment with vaccines sometimes gives very good results. Your doctor will tell you about this.

Suspense is strained to the utmost and realism is carried so far as to actually make Miss Crawford look dirty and ill-kept in certain scenes, a rare sacrifice on the part of the attractive screen personage. Miss Crawford is to be congratulated for her willingness to check her vanity in these scenes.

SOVIET INDICTS SOME ENEMIES

MOSCOW—Taking the form of an international political attack against "the bitterest enemies of the communist international," the text of the indictment against fourteen Soviet economists charged with conspiracy against the Soviet regime was published here today.

The indictment runs to 25,000 words. Prepared by the Soviet attorney-general, N. V. Krikenko, it is similar in context to the indictment in the recent sensational counter-revolutionary and sabotage trial of Professor Leonid K. Ramzin and twelve other defendants which held the interest of the world a few months ago.

The Soldiers' Loan

OUR training in matters of great sums of money and our knowledge in economics, does not permit us to judge logically what effect the increased loan on compensation certificates will have on the economic structure of our country.

We believe President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon were sincere in their opposition, and their viewpoint should be admitted in the face of tremendous opposition.

No matter, however, if the measure is economic or otherwise no one is more entitled to this consideration than our World War veterans. Perhaps a suggestion at this time would not be out of place, when business men are facing this great depression—and that is—for the veterans to spend some of this money that will be borrowed on their certificates, for things that are needed.

To borrow this money and then not put it to practical use would not be of much assistance in helping the economic depression—and this was one of the arguments used that was favorable to its passing over President Hoover's veto.

The First Years

IF the psychologists continue, as some are disposed, to push back the age at which the "permanent set" is given to the character and disposition of the child, human life will be, in these respects at least, predestinated at birth or even prenately.

For many generations a remark, imputed to a Jesuit priest, has been handed on without scientific confirmation of its implication as to the exclusive importance of the first seven years and as to the impotence of later influence to alter the spiritual nature of the child.

Some psychologists see the heaven that the poet pictures as lying about the infant displaced by the "emotional patterns" that prophesy the grown-up behavior of the child—the shades of the prison-house which begin to close upon it before it becomes even the growing boy. These patterns, they contend, are pretty well laid down before the end of the second year of infancy. It is the infant, therefore, not the seven-year-old boy, who is father to the man.

The traditional claim of the priest and the newer theories of the scientists are not, however, unchallenged. No parent, having given a child a careful moral rearing of seven years, would be willing thereafter to surrender that child to a gypsy or a slum environment or to a Fagin.

What moral progress could be expected for the race if over the portal to the eighth year of life were written, "Abandon hope of any after change all ye who enter here?"

Bulwark of Sanity

A spirit of restlessness prevails throughout the world. Like the fretful child that doesn't know what ails it, the world bawls and kicks. Assassinations and attempted assassinations have become almost daily occurrences. Abductions, revolutions and other political eruptions come in such rapid succession as to crown each other out of the news and public attention. No continent is spared, none safe from the tidal wave from this economic quake.

Bombs burst in the home of the Mexican president. King Zog goes a-courting and is placed on the "spot" by 800 self-styled patriots. South America is changing her presidents like so much underwear, and the King of Spain is left little but his crown. In the Orient revolution and civil war are in the air.

In this world of violence and disorder the United States and Canada are peaceful, with the exception of gang wars and border shootings. Even Chicago's recent election was more quiet than usual.

This contrast between peoples and nations explains why there is little to fear from the Red menace and similar terrors in North America. Here political and social changes come by process of evolution, not by revolution. Liberty and the right of self-determination are defended by the ballot rather than by bullets. Assassinations have been infrequent on this continent and those few have been the bewildered acts of the demented.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, beautiful and romantic, heeds her mother's warning against marrying a poor man and gives up Mat Tully. She accepts the attentions of Jack Beamer who plans to divorce his rich wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with Roger Decatur, a handsome ranger, and marries him. At first she is happy in his mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a long trip, she flies to her home. Without informing her family of her marriage, she re-enters the old social life. Beamer is as ardent as ever, but Nancy repulses his embraces. Roger's letters arouse Mrs. Hollenbeck's suspicions. Nancy pleads with Roger to meet her at a hotel. She waits in vain. Beamer enters the lobby and takes her to tea. She tells him of Roger but not of the marriage. Beamer receives a jolt when his wife refuses to divorce him.

CHAPTER XXXV.

IF she could only forget Roger, as he had forgotten her! He thought more of his work than of her. Why couldn't she care more for her life, her future, than for him? Why couldn't she be happy thinking about Jack. Why did she have to think about Roger, even when Jack was talking to her, even while she was planning the clothes she would have, the jewels, the lovely home?

Well, she would get over it. She'd make herself get over thinking about Roger. Hadn't he let her sit for hours in a hotel lobby, amongst strangers, waiting for him, after she had begged him to come, laid her heart bare, told him how much she needed him. Even his lame excuse came late.

When she thought of that her eyes darkened with anger. They were right, mania and the others. It didn't pay to love—to scrub and cook and wash dishes and be so careful of yourself. She had been a fool, a silly, wicked fool. She was paying for it now. For the crazy, happy days last summer, for her poor, brief honeymoon.

Accepts Gift.

No use crying over spilt milk... but it's so hard, so hard, when you've cared so much.

Never again! No more wild ecstasies for Nancy, no more heartbreak. She'd let the man do all the caring next time. Her next marriage would be different. She let Jack give her a diamond bracelet.

The family would have a fit if they knew it, but they didn't have to know it. Nor about the taxi arrangement either. Jack had arranged to have all her taxi bills charged to him. He couldn't take her places in his car; they had to be so careful of what people would think. "And I'm certainly not going to have you riding the street cars," he argued. Why quarrel with him? She let him have his way.

She met him "accidentally" on corners. In moving picture houses, in little grills, and restaurants with private boxes. It wasn't much fun, meeting that way, but what else could they do? At least it was better than going for rides in the country.

The rides were all right, or they would have been if he were content to ride. But he was always wanting to stop. To park and... well, "park" was hardly the word to apply to a millionaire's love-making, but that was what it amounted to for Nancy.

At last she was a credit to mama's training. She thought of so many ways to avoid being kissed. "Oh, Jack, let me drive. I'd just love to drive. Give me a cigarette. Let's go on to the next town and get something to eat..." It rather amused

She felt all the life oozing out of her. "Yes... who... who is it?"

Jack. She wasn't really cold. Just scared, poor kid. Worried about his wife. Well, he'd fix that.

"We'll be married in Spring," he told Nancy over and over. "Trust me—I'll get this divorce, and get it soon!"

He wished he could believe it himself. Anita hadn't gone back to Reno. She made it very plain that she had no intention of ever going there again. She stayed on in the Jackson Street house. There had come a smug look about her mouth. She thought she was cheating him out of happiness. But he knew she couldn't do it for long. Something might cheat her—something that had been waiting for her a long time, something that had already marked her for its own. Death.

Dr. Snelling, her physician, had warned him. "Don't let this alarm you unduly, Beamer. Remember, bad hearts sometimes surprise us. She may outlive you, man. But at the same time your wife is in a serious condition. The least excitement, the least physical strain and..." Dr. Snelling held up his hand. "She may go like that—like that!"

Jack thought about that when she looked too smug. He wouldn't do anything to precipitate the end, of course. But he watched for it. Sometimes he fancied the shadow was already upon her. He was gentle with her then. When her maid telephoned that she was confined to her bed, he came to see her and sent flowers. Funny how it pleased her. He must remember to send her other things. He had been prodigal with his gifts in the first year or two of their marriage when he was still impressed with all she had done for him. Lifting him up out of poverty, giving him stables and thoroughbreds. Poor Anita! Sometimes he felt almost grateful to her in spite of everything. Her age. Her broken, yellow hair. Her hungry, pleading eyes that followed him everywhere. Even this new wrinkle of hers, refusing a divorce.

Nancy's Surprise.

Yes, he had been good to her, he decided. He had given the best years of his life to her. If she didn't take too long about divorcing him, he might even go into mourning for her for a while. She would like that. He would build the best mausoleum money could buy.

Nancy could wait. Then they'd show the world what real entertaining was like...

"The flowers are lovely, dear," she smiled at him, patting them with her wrinkled, yellow hand. "That so?" he smiled back. He was thinking of Nancy.

Nancy thought it was he who mama said a gentleman wanted to speak to her at the telephone.

"Hello," she called brightly. "Hello, Jack!" she almost said.

"Hello... is that you, Nancy?" Nancy sat down. Her knees were sagging. She felt all the life oozing out of her, as the air oozed out of a pricked balloon. "Yes... who is it?"

She licked her dry lips. She knew. She did not need his answer.

Her Reply.

"It's Roger, Nancy. I'm in town. At Sixteenth Street Depot. I'll be right out."

She thought she heard him hanging up. She sobbed into the black open mouth of the telephone. "No, no, no... you mustn't! Roger... wait... wait, do you hear me?... Operator, you cut me off... Operator!"

Roger's voice again. "You mean... you will not see me?"

Yes, that's it. That's the best way! She wanted to say, but instead she heard herself crying. "No, no. It's just that I... Wait. Wait there at the depot—I'll be there—five minutes—"

Sixteenth Street Station, Oakland, is built on filled ground. It vibrates when the long trains from the East bear down upon it, rounding the curve. It shivers when the locals on the elevated tracks—for a few hundred yards the West boasts an elevated—rattle by overhead.

Through its wide doors the wind from the bay blows smartly, bearing on its breath the smell of salt marshes, low-tide, tar, claims.

So that only in the corners does the smell of waiting linger. Most of the atmosphere of farewells, welcomes, nervous waiting is swept out on the pungent breeze. A cold, unhappy place with none of the merry bustle of other stations. A place to board a train, that's all.

Roger Decatur, more tired than he knew after his hours of travel, sat in a corner with a battered brown bag between his knees and an unopened newspaper in his hands. He had watched the door, staring into the bright sun until his eyes ached.

The minute he turned his eyes away her taxi drove up and she got out.

Sties May Indicate Run-Down Condition

—Eye-Strain Usually Present, Too.

A "Crop" of These Localized Inflammations Is Often the Result of Poor Health, Says Dr. Copeland. Suggesting Treatment.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

STIES are common nuisances and easily recognized. They are rather unpleasant to look at, and you are told by every one you meet, "I know what you have; you have a stie."

Next time this happens to you, reply, "No, I have hordeolum." This is the medical term for a stie.

A stie is a localized inflammation of one of the glands in the margin of the lid and of the tissues surrounding it. It is usually characterized by swelling of the lid. Sometimes the swelling is so marked as to close the lids over the eye.

At first the redness and swelling are so general as to be misleading. The condition usually appears near the margin of the lid. Later this comes to a head, and from this point pus may be extracted.

The condition usually runs its course in three to four days. Unfortunately, if you have one stie, there are likely to be others, a "crop" of them.

The eye should be bathed with boric acid. Continuous application of heat helps shorten the duration of this condition. It greatly reduces the swelling and pain.

In severe cases, where this simple treatment is not successful, it is necessary to open the infected area. Following the incision, with liberation of pus, prompt relief is afforded.

To those individuals who are susceptible to these infections, it is advisable to use a saline of yellow oxide of mercury. A bit of it is applied to the lids before retiring. Thorough bathing of the eyes and lids with warm boric acid solution in the morning will help to keep the parts clean and less likely to become infected again.

It should be remembered that sties usually indicate poor health. Often this is the result of faulty diet, lack of fresh air and rest.

Quite frequently it is associated with eye defects and unnecessary eye strain. The presence of a stie is abundant reason for having the eyes tested. Suitable glasses should be had if the examination reveals eye strain.

In very severe cases, particularly those of frequent recurrence, treatment with vaccines sometimes gives excellent results. Your doctor will tell you about this.

Answers to Health Queries

C. C. C. Q.—I am a girl of 23. About seven years ago I was operated on for appendicitis and about two months ago I gave my side a slight bump. It seemed sore for a day and then went away. Now I have pains in the stomach in that region and on the other side as well. Would too much unaccustomed exercise cause this trouble? Do you think that the bump may be responsible for the pains?

A.—I doubt that the pains are due to anything more serious than gas due to indigestion. You may possibly have caused a little strain from the unaccustomed exercise, but this would not be cause for worry. Watch the diet and keep the bowels open. If the pain persists, see your doctor.

MRS. F. A. C. Q.—My two children have had whooping cough for 8 weeks. They are two and six years of age. How long shall I keep them away from other children in order to prevent a spread of the disease?

A.—They should be kept away from other children until all signs of the discharge have disappeared. Your doctor will advise you.

S. S. Q.—Will eye strain cause a white substance to form in the corner of the eyes?

A.—No, this is probably due to cold or infection. Bathe the eyes several times daily with a weak solution of boric acid and apply 1% yellow oxide of mercury ointment to the lids at night.

EDNA L. Q.—What causes a tight feeling in the stomach?

A.—Probably due to indigestion. Correct your diet and avoid constipation.

Metropolitan Company in Cleveland Apr. 27-May 2

Proud of its unique position as the only city in the world where grand opera is both an artistic and financial success, Cleveland was preparing today to welcome the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York to its fifth spring festival under joint auspices of the city of Cleveland and the Northern Ohio Opera Association. Dates for this year's season are April 27 to May 2.

In keeping with the traditional policy of the committee headed by Senator Robert J. Bulkley, the music lovers of this entire section of the country have been asked to help pick the repertoire for the eight performances in six days of the festival. Suggestions are to be sent to the committee's offices at 721 Bulkley Building, addressed to Messrs. Miskell and Sutton.

FIVE YEARS AGO
Five years ago, when grand opera took off its "high hat" here, the committee first based its repertoire upon the expressed suggestions of opera lovers of the state and so successful was the innovation, both in the calibre of the opera desired and in the attendance which the season drew, that the policy has been continued ever since.

Each year hundreds of lists of suggestions are received by the committee and are tabulated for the guidance of the committee in its negotiations with Giulio Gatti-

Cassaza, general manager of the Metropolitan and Edward Ziegler, assistant general manager in charge of the tour.

Each year the Metropolitan adds new operas to its standard repertoire in New York and more than 100 operas are available. From these, Cleveland annually picks eight or nine (sometimes there is a double bill of two short operas at one performance) and crams into one week far more gorgeous opera than New York itself sees in four times as long a series.

Undoubtedly, too, Cleveland will see many a new face in the casts this year, for debuts of international interest have brought new stars into the great galaxy of the Metropolitan that today admittedly includes the greatest voices in the world.

GREAT FESTIVAL
"The festivals in Cleveland are the greatest in the world," said Edward Ziegler yesterday in settling the dates with the local committee. "But I am confident that they will continue to grow in importance. Rest assured that the full support of the Metropolitan will be given to the repertoire to be selected."

"The Metropolitan comes to us for the eighth time and for the fifth under civic auspices—an old friend and a most welcome one," said Senator Bulkley.

"Its Cleveland performances are unequalled anywhere else in the world in any similar festival and have become part of our civic life in the magnificent public hall. Here alone it is possible to present Metropolitan grand opera with seats priced as low as one dollar."

It is expected that it will take at least two weeks to tabulate the lists of operas suggested by music lovers, as already, before public announcements, many have been received at the offices of the local managers.

Mr. Ziegler pointed out that among the outstanding performances in New York this year have been Aida, The Barber of Seville, Romeo and Juliette, L'Africain, Lucia di Lammermoor, Madam Butterfly, La Juive, Rigoletto, La Traviata, Baccaccio, Pagliacci, Tales of Hoffman, Faust, Carmen, Tosca, Mignon, Force of Destiny, Norman, Manon, Le Prezioso Ruciole, The Fair at Sorochintzy, La Boheme, La Gioconda, Don Giovanni, Il Trovatore, The Girl of the Golden West, William Tell, and the new American opera, Peter Ibbetson.

It is suggested that lists of operas be largely confined to this list, although any other standard work may also be included.

The matinee for Friday afternoon, which has come to be a special event in which hundreds of school children take part, will present an opera expressly selected for their interest. This will be the first of a series of four operas in two days expressly presented for the music lovers outside of Cleveland, who wish to see as much grand opera as possible at the week-end.

INCREASED YIELDS FROM FERTILIZER

Applications of superphosphate produce greater increases than do applications of rock phosphate, says E. P. Reed, extension specialist in soils at the Ohio State University.

Tests conducted at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station show that an application of 8 tons of stall manure and 320 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate per acre will increase corn yields by about 35 bushels, wheat yields by almost 16 bushels, and clover yields by more than a ton. The entire value of the increase was found to be $37.22. Superphosphate applied at the rate of 320 pounds per acre with manure produced an average return over manure alone of $19.36 with a cash outlay of only $3.55 for the fertilizer.

When 320 pounds of rock phosphate and 8 tons of stall manure were applied per acre, corn yields were increased by 30 bushels, wheat yields were boosted by about 13 bushels, and the clover increase amounted to 1,620 pounds. The value of this increase per rotation was found to be $47.20, or about $40 less than the increase obtained with superphosphate.

Eight tons of stall manure per acre applied without fertilizer was responsible for an increase in corn yields of about 25 bushels, an increase in wheat yields of approximately 10 bushels, and a boost of 1,796 pounds in clover production. The increases produced by stall manure were valued at $37.72 per rotation, and the increases from the same amount of yard manure were found to be worth $32.31 per rotation.

Hog prices are now about as low as they have been for three or four years. Per capita consumption of pork and lard in the United States was rather low last year, and during the last three months was extremely low.

PURE BRED RAMS BOOST RETURNS

Sheep returns may be substantially increased by using a ram of good breeding and of the right type, says L. A. Kauffman, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the Ohio State University.

To sire lambs of a desirable market type a ram should be muttony in his make-up and yet carry a fleece that is uniform and possesses length and density. Fortunately for those who will purchase rams for the coming season, purchased prices have been deflated, in most cases, more than commercial sheep prices.

Many Ohio sheepmen who possess finewool ewes and who are interested in increasing their volume of business when wool prices are low will find it profitable to practice crossbreeding, according to Kauffman. Where a good mutton ram is mated with merino ewes a desirable market lamb results. This practice does not cause any sacrifice in the wool clip, but helps in increasing returns from the lambs.

Some provision should be made for the replacement of the finewool breeding flock. In flocks using two rams, he suggests that one-half of the ewes be bred to a good "C" type ram and the best ewe lambs retained for flock replacement. The other half of the flock may then be bred to a mutton ram for the production of market lambs.

When ewes have sufficient capacity and are good milkers it is best to flush them at breeding time. If they are gaining rapidly in weight at the time they are bred the lambing per cent will be increased, Kauffman points out.

When the season of slack pastures arrives a grain mixture should be fed the lambs if forage crops are not available. Lambs fed a grain allowance while on old bluegrass pasture usually produce good returns. At the Ohio Experiment Station this past year grain fed weaned lambs on pasture greatly stimulated gains. For each $1 invested in feed $2 was returned.

GOOD OLD DAYS ARE RETURNING

LONDON, O.—Those "good old" days of hunting and fishing are on the way back to Ohio.

This was the message to more than 200 sportsmen who gathered from 10 counties Thursday night for their 17th annual meeting in London where they heard Frank L. Brothers, of the Ohio Department of Conservation, and other speakers.

Brothers hurried to London immediately after adjournment of the state Conservation Council's monthly meeting in Columbus Thursday. He stressed briefly the need for co-operation in the state's aim to restore to anglers and hunters the days "granddaddy used to brag about."

Others who spoke included R. V. D. Coons, C. G. Schlechty, C. M. Neff, Rev. C. E. Shields and O. J. Ray, Mt. Sterling.

Metropolitan Company in Cleveland Apr. 27-May 2

Proud of its unique position as the only city in the world where grand opera is both an artistic and financial success, Cleveland was preparing today to welcome the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York in its fifth spring festival under joint auspices of the city of Cleveland and the Northern Ohio Opera Association. Dates for this year's season are April 27 to May 2.

In keeping with the traditional policy of the committee headed by Senator Robert J. Bulkley, the music lovers of this entire section of the country have been asked to help pick the repertoire for the eight performances in six days of the festival. Suggestions are to be sent to the committee's offices at 721 Bulkley Building, addressed to Messrs. Miskell and Sutton.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Five years ago, when grand opera took off its "high hat" here, the committee first based its repertoire upon the expressed suggestions of opera lovers of the state and so successful was the innovation, both in the calibre of the opera desired and in the attendance which the season drew, that the policy has been continued ever since.

Each year hundreds of lists of suggestions are received by the committee and are tabulated for the guidance of the committee in its negotiations with Giulio Gatti-

Cassaza, general manager of the Metropolitan and Edward Ziegler, assistant general manager in charge of the tour.

Each year the Metropolitan adds new operas to its standard repertoire in New York and more than 100 operas are available. From these, Cleveland annually picks eight or nine (sometimes there is a double bill of two short operas at one performance) and crams into one week far more gorgeous opera than New York itself sees in four times as long a series.

Undoubtedly, too, Cleveland will see many a new face in the casts this year, for debuts of international interest have brought new stars into the great galaxy of the Metropolitan that today admittedly includes the greatest voices in the world.

GREAT FESTIVAL

"The festivals in Cleveland are the greatest in the world," said Edward Ziegler yesterday in setting the dates with the local committee, "but I am confident that they will continue to grow in importance. Rest assured that the full support of the Metropolitan will be given to the repertoire to be selected."

"The Metropolitan comes to us for the eighth time and for the fifth under civic auspices—an old friend and a most welcome one," said Senator Bulkley.

"Its Cleveland performances are unequalled anywhere else in the world in any similar festival and have become part of our civic life in the magnificent public hall. Here alone it is possible to present Metropolitan grand opera with seats priced as low as one dollar."

It is expected that it will take at least two weeks to tabulate the lists of operas suggested by music lovers, as already, before public announcements, many have been received at the offices of the local managers.

Mr. Ziegler pointed out that among the outstanding performances in New York this year have been Aida, The Barber of Seville, Romeo and Juliette, L'Africain, Lucia di Lammermoor, Madam Butterfly, La Juive, Rigoletto, La Traviata, Baccaccio, Pagliacci, Tales of Hoffman, Faust, Carmen, Tosca, Mignon, Force of Destiny, Norman, Manon, Le Prezioso Riddole, The Fair at Sorochintzy, La Boheme, La Gioconda, Don Giovanni, Il Trovatore, The Girl of the Golden West, William Tell, and the new American opera, Peter Ibbetson.

It is suggested that lists of operas be largely confined to this list, although any other standard work may also be included.

The matinee for Friday afternoon, which has come to be a special event in which hundreds of school children take part, will present an opera expressly selected for their interest. This will be the first of a series of four operas in two days expressly presented for the music lovers outside of Cleveland, who wish to see as much grand opera as possible at the week-end.

INCREASED YIELDS FROM FERTILIZER

Applications of superphosphate produce greater increases than do applications of rock phosphate, says E. P. Reed, extension specialist in soils at the Ohio State University.

Tests conducted at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station show that an application of 8 tons of stall manure and 320 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate per acre will increase corn yields by about 35 bushels, wheat yields by almost 16 bushels, and the clover increase amounted to 1,620 pounds. The value of this increase per rotation was found to be $47.20, or about $40 less than the increase obtained with superphosphate.

Eight tons of stall manure per acre applied without fertilizer was responsible for an increase in corn yields of about 25 bushels, an increase in wheat yields of approximately 10 bushels, and a boost of 1,296 pounds in clover production. The increases produced by stall manure were valued at $37.72 per rotation, and the increases from the same amount of yard manure were found to be worth $32.31 per rotation.

Hog prices are now about as low as they have been for three or four years. Per capita consumption of pork and lard in the United States was rather low last year, and during the last three months was extremely low.

PURE BRED RAMS BOOST RETURNS

Sheep returns may be substantially increased by using a ram of good breeding and of the right type, says L. A. Kauffman, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the Ohio State University.

To sire lambs of a desirable market type a ram should be muttony in his make-up and yet carry a fleece that is uniform and possesses length and density. Fortunately for those who will purchase rams for the coming season, purebred prices have been deflated, in most cases, more than commercial sheep prices.

Many Ohio sheepmen who possess finewool ewes and who are interested in increasing their volume of business when wool prices are low will find it profitable to practice crossbreeding, according to Kauffman. Where a good mutton ram is mated with merino ewes a desirable market lamb results. This practice does not cause any sacrifice in the wool clip, but helps in increasing returns from the lambs.

Some provision should be made for the replacement of the finewool breeding flock. In flocks using two rams, he suggests that one-half of the ewes be bred to a good "C" type ram and the best ewe lambs retained for flock replacement. The other half of the flock may then be bred to a mutton ram for the production of market lambs.

When ewes have sufficient capacity and are good milkers it is best to flush them at breeding time. If they are gaining rapidly in weight at the time they are bred the lambing per cent will be increased, Kauffman points out.

When the season of slack pastures arrives a grain mixture should be fed the lambs if forage crops are not available. Lambs fed a grain allowance while on old bluegrass pasture usually produce good returns. At the Ohio Experiment Station this past year grain fed weaned lambs on pasture greatly stimulated gains. For each $1 invested in feed $2 was returned.

GOOD OLD DAYS ARE RETURNING

LONDON, O.—Those "good old" days of hunting and fishing are on the way back to Ohio.

This was the message to more than 200 sportsmen who gathered from 10 counties Thursday night for their 17th annual meeting in London where they heard Frank L. Brothers, of the Ohio Department of Conservation, and other speakers.

Brothers hurried to London immediately after adjournment of the state Conservation Council's monthly meeting in Columbus Thursday. He stressed briefly the need for co-operation in the state's aim to restore to anglers and hunters the days "granted used to brag about."

Others who spoke included R. V. D. Coons, C. G. Schlechty, C. M. Neff, Rev. C. E. Shields and O. J. Ray, Mt. Sterling.

Cleveland Athletic Club eagles advanced to the semifinals of the annual southeastern Ohio cage tournament at New Lexington Saturday night defeating a Gloucester team 31-17. Although Art Steel, Steve Merriman and Ralph Wallace failed to make the trip Howard White and Joe Barnes went along and played good ball. The Club led the whole way.

The game started off in nice style with the club's offensive working smoothly and at halftime the count was 14-7 in favor of the locals. White, Parks and Pickens did the scoring in this session.

In the second half the club came back to play more good ball. The passing of Judy Gordon was a feature of the game. All the members of the squad scored in the second half while Gloucester was held safe.

The club will play George Van Heyde's Blumer-Sartier five in the semi-final session Wednesday evening.

A feature of the game was the fact that Judy Gordon lost his shoes in the second half. He was traveling down the floor at a high speed when one shoe came off and his feet went from under him. He let the ball fly and it went through the hoop touching nary a thing.

The time of the Wednesday game is not yet certain.

JACKSON LAD HIGH SCORER

Radcliff Cops Honors With 38; Miss Brown Has 56 and Miss Young 54.

Cecil Radcliff, Jackson-twp's captain and center, carried off individual scoring honors in the boys' division of the tournament tallying 17 field goals and four free throws for 38 points. His biggest game was against Monroe-twp when he counted seven goals and two free tosses.

Radcliff's nearest opponent was Andy Anderson of Pickaway-twp who recorded 28 points in four games, the same number Radcliff played. Estell of Pickaway, Graves of Pickaway and Timmons of New Holland followed these two with 27, 24 and 21. Timmons counted his 21 points in two games for a better per game average than any of the players. The fact that Saltcreek played only three games, drawing a bye in the first round, kept any of their players from entering the select circle. The Saltcreek scoring was very evenly divided with Chilcote leading with 20 points in three games.

Miss Brown, Walnut-twp's classy forward, wins high scoring honors in the girls' tournament with 56 points in four games. She scored 16 field goals and 24 fouls. Several of those listed as fouls were one-point shots, Miss Young of Ashville, who carried off the high score honor last year, is second with 54 points. She outscored Miss Brown from the field with 22 action shots but connected only 10 times from the free zone. Miss Rhodes of Pickaway, in only two games, took third honors with 36 points. Her average per game was better than either Miss Brown's or Miss Young's. Aldenderfer of Walnut, followed Miss Rhodes with 35 counters in four games.

TABLES REVERSED

Without a doubt the two best girls' teams in the county fought it out in the finals in this division when the Walnut-twp girls protected their five point lead in the last two minutes of play to cop 25-24. But had the game gone on much farther things might still have been different.

Leading 25-20 with less than two minutes to play Miss Young, Ashville's fast center, scored a goal and was fouled in the act of shooting. Miss Kuhlwein was given the ball to try for the two free throws. The two tosses successfully made would have put Ashville just one point behind. The first shot missed and so did the second but Miss Young followed the second shot for the goal which put Ashville just one point behind.

Rapid passing and close guarding featured the last minute of the game with neither team getting a good shot. With the ball in Walnut's possession the gun sounded ending the contest.

ASHVILLE AHEAD

Ashville started like a house on fire and before the first period ended held a lead of 8-4. Walnut gained during the second session but at halftime still trailed 12-10. The third period was hot and tightly fought and at the end of playing time the count was tied 17-17.

Then came the final period. With Aldenderfer passing to perfection and Brown and Hanover breaking loose for shots the Walnut girls went ahead to take a good lead. But just at the end of the contest Ashville led by Miss Young, crept up until the lead was cut to one point just as the gun sounded.

This year's tournament greatly resembled last year's with both final games being decided by one point. Walnut turned the tables on Ashville this year after taking a 20-19 defeat one year ago. The boys' final between Scioto and Williamsport was won by the former 22-21 in a sensational finish.

IS FIRST TITLE

Saltcreek's victory was the first it has ever gained in county circle. Playing practically all of its games out of the county this aggregation came into the tournament as a 'dark horse' of the darkest kind. Nothing was known of this outfit's power. It had won most of its games outside of the county and was reputed to have a strong team. There seems to be no question in the minds of county fans as to the strength of the team.

Saltcreek defeated the best teams of the tournament, New Holland, Jackson and Pickaway, to win its honors. Walnut turned back Jackson, Pickaway and Darby besides Ashville.

One point shots in the girls' games are recorded as fouls in the box score.

ASHVILLE IN THIRD PLACE

Defeats Jackson in Last Game to Cop Honor; Scoring is Evenly Divided.

With nearly every member of the team scoring Ashville defeated Jackson-twp for third place in the county title chase Saturday evening, 18-15. Ashville took an early lead which it held throughout although it's margin was challenged late in the game.

Sturgell, Rinehart, Berry and Wills divided points for Ashville with Jackson's scoring led by Radcliff and Walters.

Ashville, before the tournament, was regarded as one of the easy marks, but Coach Kauber's team proved anything but that. It defeated Darby and Perry and Jackson to cop third place after winning only one game all season.

County's Star Teams Named

Although policy in selecting the five best basketball players in a tournament is to name a forward as a forward, a center as a center and a guard as a guard, the five selected by The Herald with the assistance of Vic Kolb and Mike Boland, officials in the annual county tournament, finds not a forward on the team, but puts an athlete who lined up as a guard at one forward berth and fills the other forward position with a star who played center throughout the tournament.

Kolb and Boland with a representative of The Herald went into consultation immediately after the final game Saturday and selected the following five stars as the all-tournament team:

Anderson of Pickaway, F. Radcliff of Jackson, F. Chilcote of Saltcreek, C. Spangler of Saltcreek, G. Timmons of New Holland, G.

NO APOLOGIES

No excuses or apologies are being offered for this selection because the officials, with The Herald, consider these five athletes the outstanding men of the tournament.

Anderson, playing a guard and leading the Pickaway attack, was termed by many as the best basketball player in the meet. His dash and fire was prevalent at all times and although every team he played against had its best man on him, he scored.

Cecil Radcliff, tall Jackson captain and center, was high point man of the tournament and was named for the other forward position along with Anderson. His choice as a forward will probably be criticized by many but considering that he led the tournament in scoring, that without him Jackson-twp would have been lost and that he was outplayed by only one man, Chilly Chilcote, makes his selection a stronger one.

Then comes another boy who did things in a big way and who, after the tournament, was chosen by many as its best man, Chilly Chilcote, Saltcreek-twp's captain and tip-off man. Many rated he and Anderson of Pickaway on a par.

At no time during the tournament did this long boy lose his head; never was he excited. Passing only when he had a man open; shooting only when he had a good chance and playing an excellent defensive game he has everything a good basketball player should have. He, with Ab Spangler, is the key of the Saltcreek offense as well as defense, and can well be awarded the captaincy of this all-star team.

SPANGLER STAR

Then come the guards. Spangler, dashing, Saltcreek boy, was a unanimous choice for one berth. His play during the entire tournament was excellent. He was never threatened with going out on fouls and when he shot, which wasn't often he nearly always connected. It was his basket after a great dribble that won the title for Saltcreek.

There was considerable discussion before a running-mate for Spangler was chosen, then Timmons, New Holland's flashy offensive guard, was named. Timmons played only two games scoring his team's eight points against Saltcreek. He was the only man on his team who played up to form during the time New Holland was in the tournament.

These boys are all rangy. All are fast, clean players and all possess much natural ability.

With Anderson, Radcliff, Chilcote and Timmons forcing the offense and Spangler playing 'hang-back' guard, this team would be a tough one to beat.

SECONDS NAMED

The five named for second team include Chuck Morris of Saltcreek and Estell of Pickaway at forwards; Brown of Pickaway at center, Thompson of Scioto and Dunkle of Pickaway at the guards.

The task of naming the offensive side of the girls' all-star team was not difficult but selecting the defense was a job. Kolb and Boland both favored Walnut-twp's two forwards, Aldenderfer and Brown and chose Young of Ashville, without any trouble for the offensive center post.

These three girls would form an excellent offense were they on the same team, with Aldenderfer in the role of "feeder" to both Miss Brown and Miss Young. Aldenderfer was named by the officials as the best passer in the girls' division of the tournament. Her pivoting and general ability gave her her position. Miss Brown led the tournament in scoring.

Miss Mary Young of Ashville, again proved the best offensive center of the year, although pressed by Miss Hanover of Walnut-twp. Young scored 22 field goals in four games, many more than her nearest opponent.

GUARDS TOUGH

Miss Kuhn of Walnut-twp was given the side-center berth because of her excellent guarding of Miss Young in the final game. Young scored four goals on Miss Kuhn, two coming in the final few minutes.

Hedges, Ashville's captain, is named at one guard position and Johnson of Scioto-twp is selected as the running-mate for Miss Hedges. Johnson is rough and fast, and an excellent passer. Her over-anxiety is her only fault and this led her to a number of fouls.

Rhodes, Pickaway, and Schlegel, Ashville, are named as second choice as side center on the second selection with Dunkle of Walnut and Tolbert of Pickaway as the guards.

No matter what teams are named there are always players who do not agree but after careful consideration of players all through the tournament the above athletes are given mythical berths. The play of none of these players through the season is considered at all for neither of the officials saw either of the teams in action until the tournament.

DESERVE MENTION

A number of stars on the several teams deserve honorable mention for their play included among the boys are: Sturgell and Cloud of Ashville; Trego and Hutchins of Scioto-twp; Walters of Jackson-twp; Graves of Pickaway; Baird of Deercreek; J. R. Downs and Dudson of Monroe-twp; Thacker and V. Tarbill of Perry-twp; R. French and Davey of New Holland; Beougher and J. Hartranft of Saltcreek; Erskine of Darby; Hill of Muhlenberg; Miller of Walnut and R. Leist of Washington.

Girls who played well in the tournament were Costlow and Lynch of Walnut and Kuhlwein and Hay of Ashville; Ater and Collett of Deercreek; Dilz of Washington; Anderson and French of Pickaway; Stewart and Beatty of Muhlenberg; Trego and Hudson of Scioto; Kreider and Chilcote of Saltcreek; Redman and Karn of Darby; Kirk of New Holland; Farmer of Perry; E. Smith of Monroe and Huston of Jackson.

PLAY MATCH

A ping pong tournament will be staged at Hamilton's C. A. C. court Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. for men. Prizes will be given for the best player.

I have seen your advertising displays in the newspapers and on billboards, telling people about the harm spitting may cause and the dangers lurking in cigars when the tips are sealed with spit. Your efforts to teach the public and thus prevent suffering will do more than sell cigars. You will benefit public health, and for that reason I want to give my enthusiastic approval to your campaign.

As a health commissioner, I am interested in seeing in formation of this sort brought home to everybody. Human ills would be greatly lessened if every person knew what danger there is in spitting in public places and in using the tongue to seal or moisten anything in manufacturing. Your campaign is indeed a "Crusade of Decency" and my department wishes you success in your efforts.

You are welcome to use this letter in your plan of public education, if you wish, with the understanding that I am not publicly endorsing your product in preference to any other, but that I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner.

JACKSON LAD HIGH SCORER

Radcliff Cops Honors With 38; Miss Brown Has 56 and Miss Young 54.

Cecil Radcliff, Jackson-twp's captain and center, carried off individual scoring honors in the boys' division of the tournament tallying 17 field goals and four free throws for 38 points. His biggest game was against Monroe-twp when he counted seven goals and two free tosses.

Radcliff's nearest opponent was Andy Anderson of Pickaway-twp who recorded 28 points in four games, the same number Radcliff played. Estell of Pickaway, Graves of Pickaway and Timmons of New Holland followed these two with 27, 24 and 21. Timmons counted his 21 points in two games for a better per game average than any of the players. The fact that Saltcreek played only three games, drawing a bye in the first round, kept any of their players from entering the select circle. The Saltcreek scoring was very evenly divided with Chilcote leading with 20 points in three games.

Miss Brown, Walnut-twp's classy forward, wins high scoring honors in the girls' tournament with 56 points in four games. She scored 16 field goals and 24 fouls. Several of those listed as fouls were one-point shots, Miss Young of Ashville, who carried off the high score honor last year, is second with 54 points. She outscored Miss Brown from the field with 22 action shots but connected only 10 times from the free zone. Miss Rhodes of Pickaway, in only two games, took third honors with 36 points. Her average per game was better than either Miss Brown's or Miss Young's. Aldenderfer of Walnut, followed Miss Rhodes with 35 counts in four games.

COUNTY TITLE

Continued from Page One. to insist on playing Friday evening. He was so ill Saturday that his physician would not permit him to leave his bed. His kid cousin, Skeeter Hartranft, a freshman, held down Jim's position in good style.

TABLES REVERSED
Without a doubt the two best girls' teams in the county fought it out in the finals in this division when the Walnut-twp girls protected their five point lead in the last two minutes of play to cop 25-24. But had the game gone on much farther things might still have been different.

Leading 25-20 with less than two minutes to play Miss Young, Ashville's fast center, scored a goal and was fouled in the act of shooting. Miss Kuhlwein was given the ball to try for the two free throws. The two tosses successfully made would have put Ashville just one point behind. The first shot missed and so did the second but Miss Young followed the second shot for the goal which put Ashville just one point behind.

Rapid passing and close guarding featured the last minute of the game with neither team getting a good shot. With the ball in Walnut's possession the gun sounded ending the contest.

ASHVILLE AHEAD
Ashville started like a house-afire and before the first period ended held a lead of 8-4. Walnut gained during the second session but at halftime still trailed 12-10. The third period was hot and tightly fought and at the end of playing time the count was tied 17-17.

Then came the final period. With Aldenderfer passing to perfection and Brown and Hanover breaking loose for shots the Walnut girls went ahead to take a good lead. But just at the end of the contest Ashville, led by Miss Young, crept up until the lead was cut to one point just as the gun sounded.

This year's tournament greatly resembled last year's with both

Track Sensation

Meet Percy Beard, of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, whose campaign on Eastern indoor tracks has been little less than sensational. At the New York A. A. U. track and field championships he set a world's record of 8.5 seconds in the 70-yard high hurdles, preceded by three record-equaling performances.

final games being decided by one point. Walnut turned the tables on Ashville this year after taking a 20-19 defeat one year ago. The boys' final between Scioto and Williamsport was won by the former 22-21 in a sensational finish.

IS FIRST TITLE
Saltcreek's victory was the first it has ever gained in county court circles. Playing practically all of its games out of the county this aggregation came into the tournament as a 'dark horse' of the darkest kind. Nothing was known of this outfit's power. It had won most of its games outside of the county and was reputed to have a strong team. There seems to be no question in the minds of county fans as to the strength of the team.

Saltcreek defeated the best teams of the tournament, New Holland, Jackson and Pickaway, to win its honors. Walnut turned back Jackson, Pickaway and Darby besides Ashville.

One point shots in the girls' games are recorded as fouls in the box score.

ASHVILLE IN THIRD PLACE

Defeats Jackson in Last Game to Cop Honor; Scoring is Evenly Divided.

With nearly every member of the team scoring Ashville defeated Jackson-twp for third place in the county title chase Saturday evening, 18-15. Ashville took an early lead which it held throughout although it's margin was challenged late in the game.

Sturgell, Rinehart, Berry and Wills divided points for Ashville with Jackson's scoring led by Radcliff and Walters.

Ashville, before the tournament, was regarded as one of the easy marks, but Coach Kauber's team proved anything but that. It defeated Darby and Perry and Jackson to cop third place after winning only one game all season.

County's Star Teams Named

Although policy in selecting the five best basketball players in a tournament is to name a forward as a forward, a center as a center and a guard as a guard, the five selected by The Herald with the assistance of Vic Kolb and Mike Boland, officials in the annual county tournament, finds not a forward on the team, but puts an athlete who lined up as a guard at one forward berth and fills the other forward position with a star who played center throughout the tournament.

Kolb and Boland with a representative of The Herald went into consultation immediately after the final game Saturday and selected the following five stars as the all-tournament team:

Anderson of Pickaway, F. Radcliff of Jackson, F. Chilcote of Saltcreek, C. Spangler of Saltcreek, G. Timmons of New Holland, G.

NO APOLOGIES
No excuses or apologies are being offered for this selection because the officials, with The Herald, consider these five athletes the outstanding men of the tournament. Anderson, playing a guard and leading the Pickaway attack, was termed by many as the best basketball player in the meet. His dash and fire was prevalent at all times and although every team he played against had its best man on him, he scored.

Cecil Radcliff, tall Jackson captain and center, was high point man of the tournament and was named for the other forward position along with Anderson. His choice as a forward will probably be criticized by many but considering that he led the tournament in scoring, that without him Jackson-twp would have been lost and that he was outplayed by only one man, Chilly Chilcote, makes his selection a stronger one.

Then comes another boy who did things in a big way and who, after the tournament, was chosen by many as its best man, Chilly Chilcote, Saltcreek-twp's captain and tip-off man. Many rated he and Anderson of Pickaway on a par. At no time during the tournament did this long boy lose his head; never was he excited. Passing only when he had a man open; shooting only when he had a goal chance and playing an excellent defensive game he has everything a good basketball player should have. He, with Ab Spangler, is the key of the Saltcreek offense as well as defense, and can well be awarded the captaincy of this all-star team.

SPANGLER STAR
Then come the guards. Spangler, dashing, Saltcreek boy, was a unanimous choice for one berth. His play during the entire tournament was excellent. He was never threatened with going out on fouls and when he shot, which wasn't often he nearly always connected. It was his basket after a great dribble that won the title for Saltcreek.

There was considerable discussion before a running-mate for Spangler was chosen, then Timmons, New Holland's flashy offensive guard, was named. Timmons played only two games scoring his team's eight points against Saltcreek. He was the only man on his team who played up to form during the time New Holland was in the tournament.

These boys are all rangy. All are fast, clean players and all possess much natural ability.

With Anderson, Radcliff, Chilcote and Timmons forcing the offense and Spangler playing 'hang-back' guard, this team would be a tough one to beat.

SECONDS NAMED
The five named for second team include Chuck Morris of Saltcreek and Estell of Pickaway at forwards; Brown of Pickaway at center, Thompson of Scioto and Dunkle of Pickaway at the guards.

The task of naming the offensive side of the girls' all-star team was not difficult but selecting the defense was a job. Kolb and Boland both favored Walnut-twp's two forwards, Aldenderfer and Brown and chose Young of Ashville, without any trouble for the offensive center post.

These three girls would form an excellent offense were they on the same team, with Aldenderfer in the role of "feeder" to both Miss Brown and Miss Young. Aldenderfer was named by the officials as the best passer in the girls' division of the tournament. Her pivoting and general ability gave her her position. Miss Brown led the tournament in scoring.

Miss Mary Young of Ashville, again proved the best offensive center of the year, although pressed by Miss Hanover of Walnut-twp. Young scored 22 field goals in four games, many more than her nearest opponent.

GUARDS TOUGH
Miss Kuhn of Walnut-twp was given the side-center berth because of her excellent guarding of Miss Young in the final game. Young scored four goals on Miss Kuhn, two coming in the final few minutes. Hedges, Ashville's captain, is named at one guard position and Johnson of Scioto-twp is selected as the running-mate for Miss Hedges. Johnson is rough and fast, and an excellent passer. Her over-anxiety is her only fault and this led her to a number of fouls.

Rhodes, Pickaway, and Schlegel, Ashville, are named as second choice as side center on the second selection with Dunkle of Walnut and Tolbert of Pickaway as the guards.

No matter what teams are named there are always persons who do not agree but after careful consideration of players all through the tournament the above athletes are given mythical berths. The play of none of these players through the season is considered at all for neither of the officials saw either of the teams in action until the tournament.

DESERVE MENTION

A number of stars on the several teams deserve honorable mention for their play included among the boys are: Sturgell and Cloud of Ashville; Trego and Hutchins of Scioto-twp; Walters of Jackson-twp; Graves of Pickaway; Baird of Deercreek; J. R. Downs and Dudleson of Monroe-twp; Thacker and V. Tarbill of Perry-twp; R. French and Davey of New Holland; Beougher and J. Hartranft of Saltcreek; Erskine of Darby; Hill of Muhlenberg; Miller of Walnut and R. Leist of Washington.

Girls who played well in the tournament were Costlow and Lynch of Walnut and Kuhlwein and Hay of Ashville; Ater and Collett of Deercreek; Diltz of Washington; Anderson and French of Pickaway; Stewart and Beatty of Muhlenberg; Trego and Hudson of Scioto; Kreider and Chilcote of Saltcreek; Redman and Karn of Darby; Kirk of New Holland; Farmer of Perry; E. Smith of Monroe and Huston of Jackson.

PLAY MATCH

A ping pong tournament will be staged at Hamilton's C. A. C. court Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. for men. Prizes will be given for the best player.

"You Will Benefit Public Health"

Says

DR. J. F. X. STACK

Health Commissioner, City of Hoboken, N. J.

... one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Stack's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Stack writes: "I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it... Smoke Certified Cremo - a really wonderful smoke - mild - mellow - nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I have seen your advertising displays in the newspapers and on billboards, telling people about the harm spitting may cause and the dangers lurking in cigars when the tips are sealed with spit. Your efforts to teach the public and thus prevent suffering will do more than sell cigars. You will benefit public health, and for that reason I want to give my enthusiastic approval to your campaign.

As a health commissioner, I am interested in seeing information of this sort brought home to everybody. Human ills would be greatly lessened if every person knew what danger there is in spitting in public places and in using the tongue to seal or moisten anything in manufacturing. Your campaign is indeed a "Crusade of Decency" and my department wishes you success in your efforts.

You are welcome to use this letter in your plan of public education, if you wish, with the understanding that I am not publicly endorsing your product in preference to any other, but that I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner.

Very truly yours,

J. F. X. Stack, M.D.

Health Commissioner,

THE FAMILY

OBITUARY
Again the grim reaper has reminded us that death is certain. This time the Lord has chosen and taken from us a most loved member of the family, Mother Kerns.
Julia Ann Kerns, daughter of Martin and Polly Hardesty Drake, born in Ross-co, November 12, 1846. She departed this life on Feb. 15, 1931, aged 84 years and 3 months.
In June 1866 she was united in marriage to Henry Kerns, who preceded her in death on April 11, 1914. Twelve children came to bless this union, four sons having preceded her in death, three in infancy and one son, Luther in 1925.
She leaves to mourn her five sons and three daughters, namely, Austin of near Thatcher, Wesley of Kingston; Newton of near Leisville, Albert of Cedar Hill, Daniel of Westminster; Mary Ann Speakman of Williamsport; Polly Chester of Walnut Valley and Martha Norman of Lancaster. Forty five grandchildren and forty five great grandchildren and two sister, Mrs. Rhoda Thornton of Carey, Ohio and Mrs. Hanna Morrison of Whisler besides a host of other relatives and friends.
When but a girl she was converted and baptized and was taken into the Walnut Valley U. B. Church almost fifty years ago. She remained a faithful member until death. Although she could not regularly attend church she kept faith and it was her greatest enjoyment to do the will of God and live a life of service for him.

interest in her children and their homes where she will be sadly missed. She was interested in the welfare of those around her and was always ready to do a kind deed for some one. The community as well as the family mourn the loss of a loving friend and mother to all who knew her.
Although our hearts are broken and we bow in humble submission to him who is author of all good and say Thy will, O Lord, not ours be done! She was always a quiet and retiring disposition and enjoyed good health until about fourteen months ago when she was stricken.

THE FAMILY

OBITUARY
Again the grim reaper has reminded us that death is certain. This time the Lord has chosen and taken from us a most loved member of the family, Mother Kerns.
Julia Ann Kerns, daughter of Martin and Polly Hardesty Drake, born in Ross-co, November 12, 1846. She departed this life on Feb. 15, 1931, aged 84 years and 3 months.
In June 1866 she was united in marriage to Henry Kerns, who preceded her in death on April 11, 1914. Twelve children came to bless this union, four sons having preceded her in death, three in infancy and one son, Luther in 1925.
She leaves to mourn her five sons and three daughters, namely, Austin of near Thatcher, Wesley of Kingston; Newton of near Leisville, Albert of Cedar Hill, Daniel of Westminster; Mary Ann Speakman of Williamsport; Polly Chester of Walnut Valley and Martha Norman of Lancaster. Forty five grandchildren and forty five great grandchildren and two sister, Mrs. Rhoda Thornton of Carey, Ohio and Mrs. Hanna Morrison of Whisler besides a host of other relatives and friends.
When but a girl she was converted and baptized and was taken into the Walnut Valley U. B. Church almost fifty years ago. She remained a faithful member until death. Although she could not regularly attend church she kept faith and it was her greatest enjoyment to do the will of God and live a life of service for him.
She was a devoted mother and home maker always taking a great interest in her children and their homes where she will be sadly missed. She was interested in the welfare of those around her and was always ready to do a kind deed for some one. The community as well as the family mourn the loss of a loving friend and mother to all who knew her.

Although our hearts are broken and we bow in humble submission to him who is author of all good and say Thy will, O Lord, not ours be done! She was always a quiet and retiring disposition and enjoyed good health until about fourteen months ago when she was stricken.

CARD OF THANKS
 We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all the neighbors and friends for their help and consoling words during the illness and death of our beloved mother, To Rev. Greene and Rev. Robinette for their consoling officiating at the funeral, To the singers, To undertaker and to all who have contributed floral offerings or helped in any way to enlighten our affliction and console our aching hearts.
THE FAMILY
OBITUARY
 Again the grim reaper has reminded us that death is certain. This time the Lord has chosen and taken from us a most loved member of the family, Mother Kerns. Julia Ann Kerns, daughter of Martin and Polly Hardesty Drake, born in Ross-co, November 12, 1846. She departed this life on Feb. 15, 1931, aged 84 years and 3 months.
 In June 1866 she was united in marriage to Henry Kerns, who preceded her in death on April 11, 1914. Twelve children came to bless this union, four sons having preceded her in death, three in infancy and one son, Luther in 1925.
 She leaves to mourn her loss: five sons and three daughters, namely, Austin of near Thatcher, Wesley of Kingston; Newton of near Leistville, Albert of Cedar Hill, Daniel of Westminster; Mary Ann Speaker of Williamsport; Polly Chester of Walnut Valley and Martha Norman of Lancaster. Forty five grandchildren and forty five great grandchildren and two sister, Mrs. Rhoda Thornton of Carey, Ohio and Mrs. Hanna Morrison of Whisler besides a host of other relatives and friends.
 When but a girl she was converted and baptized and was taken into the Walnut Valley U. B. Church almost fifty years ago. She remained a faithful member until death. Although she could not regularly attend church she kept faithfully and it was her greatest enjoyment to do the will of God and live a life of service for him. She was a devoted mother and home maker always taking a great

SPEAKERS OF NOTE AT WOMEN'S MEET

Nationally known speakers on a variety of subjects interesting to club women, are scheduled for the 36th annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs to be held in Youngstown, April 7-10. The program is being arranged by Mrs. Burton W. Jones, Troy, program chairman and vice president of the federation, and Mrs. William H. Schwartz, Portsmouth, president of the organization.

Six women speakers who are scheduled for the four-day program are: Mrs. Ben Hooper, chairman of international relations in the General Federation of Women's clubs; Miss Marion Angeline Howlett, travel writer; Miss Mary Stewart, author of the "Club Woman's Creed"; Miss Margaret Evans, director of art in the Butler Art Institute, Youngstown; Mrs. Paul H. McElvey, Youngstown poet; and Miss Emma Gonzalez of Chile, who holds the Pan American scholarship of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs.

Other outstanding speakers of the week are: Arthur Guiterman, poet; Bruce Bliven, editor of the New Republic; Warren Henry Manning, internationally known landscape architect, and Dr. Samuel Renshaw, superintendent of the Bureau of Juvenile Research of Ohio.

Ohio women, prominent in the activities of the General Federation of Women's clubs who are to speak are: Dr. Josephine L. Peirce, Lima; Mrs. William N. Harder, Marion; and Miss Georgia McAfee, Lima. Mrs. Robert Morris, Toledo, chairman of the division of literature in the federation, will give a book review, "a program which has been a feature of many conventions."

HOUSE MOURNS COOPER DEATH

Hoover Praises Dean of Congress Who Succumbs At Age of 80.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—The house today mourned the death of its dean, Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, the oldest member in point of years and service.

A veteran LaFollette Republican, a man of unusual personal magnetism and a recognized authority in virtually all questions pending before congress, Cooper's passing brought more than usual expressions of regret.

Having passed his 80th birthday on Sept. 8, 1930, he exceeded Rep. Graham (R) of Pennsylvania by five days in age. He was serving his 18th term, or two terms more than Rep. Haugen (R) of Iowa. As the late Wisconsin member was out one term, Rep. Haugen exceeded him in consecutive service.

HEART ATTACK
Although Rep. Cooper died following a heart attack, his health had declined noticeably since he fell over a chair in his home at Racine, Wis., last summer.

The last piece of legislation he put through congress is regarded by his friends as his memorial. His bill, giving the name "Constitution Avenue" to B-st, the great new avenue between rows of government buildings, became law only a few days ago.

The last public utterance of Rep. Cooper was an interview with International News Service in which he announced he would not attend the caucus of House Republicans to choose candidates for offices in the next congress.

PAID BY HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—President Hoover today praised the courage and high ideals of Rep. Henry Allen Cooper (R) of Wisconsin, in a message of condolence to the widow. Mr. Cooper died at his home here yesterday.

"I send you my deepest sympathy in your bereavement and I do pray that you find consolation in the memory of his long and useful career. Congressman Cooper's courage and high ideals rendered him a truly valuable servant of our country."

The senate recessed from 11 o'clock until noon out of respect to Mr. Cooper.

Over 1,000 Ohio farmers kept cost records of their farm business last year.

Virgil Bennett, 18, of Hall's Summit, Kan., is said to possess normal health despite the fact that the leaden missile which lodged in his heart when he was shot accidentally 4 months ago, has not been removed.

SPEAKERS OF NOTE AT WOMEN'S MEET

Nationally known speakers on a variety of subjects interesting to club women, are scheduled for the 36th annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs to be held in Youngstown, April 7-10. The program is being arranged by Mrs. Burton W. Jones, Troy, program chairman and vice president of the federation, and Mrs. William H. Schwartz, Portsmouth, president of the organization.

Six women speakers who are scheduled for the four-day program are: Mrs. Ben Hooper, chairman of international relations in the General Federation of Women's clubs; Miss Marion Angeline Howlett, world traveler; Miss Mary Stewart, author of the "Club Woman's Creed"; Miss Margaret Evans, director of art in the Butler Art Institute, Youngstown; Mrs. Paul H. McElvey, Youngstown poet; and Miss Emma Gonzalez of Chile, who holds the Pan American scholarship of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs.

Other outstanding speakers of the week are: Arthur Guiterman, poet; Bruce Bliven, editor of the New Republic; Warren Henry Manning, internationally known landscape architect, and Dr. Samuel Renshaw, superintendent of the Bureau of Juvenile Research of Ohio.

Ohio women, prominent in the activities of the General Federation of Women's clubs who are to speak are: Dr. Josephine L. Peirce, Lima; Mrs. William H. Harder, Marion, and Miss Georgia McAfee, Lima. Mrs. Robert Morris, Toledo, chairman of the division of literature in the federation, will give a book review, a program which has been a feature of many conventions.

MELON GROWERS TO CONVEENE HERE

E. B. Tussing of the Horticulture department and A. L. Piersdorf, Plant Pathologist, both of Ohio State University, will be principal speakers at a Pickaway-co Melon Growers school, which will be held at the farm bureau home, E. Main-st., Thursday at 10 a. m.

According to H. Stanley Lewis, county agent, who will have charge of the program, melon growing in Pickaway-co is developing into a considerable cash crop, and with proper fertilization and control of disease and insects, it can be made a still better paying crop.

THARP NAMED

E. C. Tharp of the Pickaway Dairy Co., has been chosen vice chairman of the Columbus District of the Ohio Association of Creamery Owners and Managers, according to an announcement made in Columbus today by Fred L. Shoenberger, secretary of the association.

HOUSE MOURNS COOPER DEATH

Hoover Praises Dean of Congress Who Succumbs At Age of 80.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—The house today mourned the death of its dean, Rep. Henry Allen Cooper, the oldest member in point of years and service.

A veteran LaFollette Republican, a man of unusual personal magnetism and a recognized authority in virtually all questions pending before congress, Cooper's passing brought more than usual expressions of regret.

Having passed his 80th birthday on Sept. 8, 1930, he exceeded Rep. Graham (R) of Pennsylvania by five days in age. He was serving his 18th term, or two terms more than Rep. Haugen (R) of Iowa. As the late Wisconsin member was out one term, Rep. Haugen exceeded him in consecutive service.

Although Rep. Cooper died following a heart attack, his health had declined noticeably since he fell over a chair in his home at Racine, Wis., last summer.

The last piece of legislation he put through congress is regarded by his friends as his memorial. His bill, giving the name "Constitution Avenue," to B-st, the great new avenue between rows of government buildings, became law only a few days ago.

The last public utterance of Rep. Cooper was an interview with International News Service in which he announced he would not attend the caucus of House Republicans to choose candidates for offices in the next congress.

PRaised BY HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—President Hoover today praised the courage and high ideals of Rep. Henry Allen Cooper (R) of Wisconsin, in a message of condolence to the widow. Mr. Cooper died at his home here yesterday.

"I send you my deepest sympathy in your bereavement and I do pray that you find consolation in the memory of his long and useful career. Congressman Cooper's courage and high ideals rendered him a truly valuable servant of our country."

The senate recessed from 11 o'clock until noon out of respect to Mr. Cooper.

Over 1,000 Ohio farmers kept cost records of their farm business last year.
